Sin and Confession on the Eve of the Reformation Thomas N. Tentler, 2015-03-08 Although John Calvin often likened sacramental confession to butchery the Council of Trent declared that for those who approached it worthily it was made easy by its great benefits and consolations Thomas Tentler describes and evaluates the effectiveness of sacramental confession as a functioning institution designed to cause guilt as well as cure guilt seeing it in its proper place as a part of the social fabric of the Middle Ages The author examines the institution of confession in practice as well as in theory providing an analysis of a practical literature whose authors wanted to explain as clearly as they safely could what confessors and penitents had to believe do feel say and intend if sacramental confession were to forgive sins In so doing he recreates the mentality and experience that the Reformers attacked and the Counter Reformers defended Central to his thesis is the contention that Luther Calvin and the Fathers of Trent regarded religious institutions as the solution to certain social and psychological problems and that an awareness of this attitude is important for an assessment of the significance of confession in late medieval and Reformation Europe Originally published in 1977 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Life and revelations of saint Margaret of Cortona, tr. by F.M. Mahony Giunta dei Bevegnati, 1883 Gesta Romanorum: or, Entertaining moral stories; tr. with notes by C. Swan, revised and corrected by W. Hooper Romani, 1905 The memoirs of François René, vicomte de Chateaubriand, a tr. by A. Teixeira de Mattos of the Mémoires d'outre-tombe François-René vicomte de Chateaubriand, 1902 The Augsburg Confession Timothy J. Wengert, 2020-09-01 The Augsburg Confession is the single most important confession of faith among Lutherans today However it is often taught either from a historical perspective or from a dogmatic one Yet the context out of which it arose was far more practical and lively marked from the outset as confessions of faith in the face of fierce opposition and threats The original princely signers while clearly outlining the teaching of their churches were also staking their lives on the witness to the gospel that had been emanating from Wittenberg since 1517 when Martin Luther first published his Ninety Five Theses By situating both the history and the theology of this document within the practice and life of faith Timothy J Wengert shows just how relevant the Confession s witness is for today s Lutheran parishes and their leaders by unlocking how its articles can shape and strengthen the church s witness today
