African Spaces:

African Spaces Jean-Paul Bourdier, Thi Minh-Ha Trinh, 1985 The diversity and complexity of African vernacular architecture remain widely unknown both to the general public and to architects Yet Upper Volta Burkino Faso encompasses an astonishing variety of design principles and building techniques that belie the widespread image of the primitive hut so readily associated with rural Africa This provides a convincing interpretation of the relationship between spatial organisation and daily activity in Gurunsi life

Comparing African Spaces Sabine Neumann, 1999 Pan African Spaces Loy Azalia, Msia Kibona Clark, Phiwokuhle Mnyandu, 2018-12-11 This book explores Black identity from a global perspective The historical and contemporary migrations of African peoples have brought up some interesting questions regarding identity This text examines some of those questions and will provide relevant essays on the identities created by those migrations Following a regional contextualizing of migration trends the personal essays will allow for understandings of how those migrations impacted personal and community identities Each of the personal essays will be written by bicultural Africans Blacks from around the world The essays represent a wide spectrum of experiences and viewpoints central to the bicultural Africans Black experience The contributors offer poignant and grounded perspectives on the diverse ways race ethnicity and culture are experienced debated and represented All of the chapters contribute more broadly to writings on dual identities and the various ways bicultural Africans Blacks navigate their identities and their places in African and Diaspora communities

African Spaces Giovanni Faleg,2022 The new scramble for Africa characterised by renewed interest in the continent by foreign powers eager to expand their influence there has been a salient feature of Africa s geopolitical dynamics in recent years This Chaillot Paper asks the question what are the emerging spaces where power competition is taking place in the African continent It argues that a space today is not just conceptualised as a territory but can encompass a broader range of non territorial dimensions such as cyberspace or the infosphere which have recently gained prominence due to the emergence of new innovations and technologies Eight distinct spaces are identified which can be seen as the main frontlines of power competition in the continent While the first section focuses on geographical spaces the second section focuses on key functional spaces including the trade and digital sectors the job market and the information space and examines how new power relations and dynamics are unfolding in these domains The volume connects the dots between the different arenas of geopolitical contest offering new guiding principles for a stronger strategic relationship between the EU and African partners
