At the Back of the North Wind George MacDonald,2020-09-14 At the Back of the North Wind by George MacDonald The story tells of a young man named Diamond the son of a coachman in an English country mansion Diamond sleeps in the haystack above the stables and is disturbed at night by the wind blowing through the holes in the wall He tries to cover them up but one night he hears an imperious voice scolding him for doing this It is the magnificent North Wind that speaks to him and tells him that he has closed his windows Puzzled and intrigued Diamond begins a conversation with this haughty lady who then invites him to travel with her and see the wide world What follows is a series of wonderful adventures and experiences in which the great North Wind teaches Diamond the most valuable lessons a human being can learn about truth goodness beauty and love The book is said to have inspired writers like CS Lewis The author George Macdonald was a literary luminary of his day A friend of the great artists writers and philosophers of the time such as John Ruskin Charles Dickens Wilkie Collins Antony Trollope Walt Whitman Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and many others he was an ordained minister of the Church as well as being a talented poet and writer His work includes novels fantasy stories children s stories poetry non fiction and religious treatises He was also a strong advocate of criminal reform and opposed punishment in any form believing that love could conquer all Behind the North Wind has been seen by many scholars as an allegorical tale But for young readers it is simply an exciting fantasy story

At the Back of the North Wind by George MacDonald George MacDonald,2020-09-02 I HAVE been asked to tell you about the back of the north wind An old Greek writer mentions a people who lived there and were so comfortable that they could not bear it any longer and drowned themselves My story is not the same as his I do not think Herodotus had got the right account of the place I am going to tell you how it fared with a boy who went there He lived in a low room over a coach house and that was not by any means at the back of the north wind as his mother very well knew For one side of the room was built only of boards and the boards were so old that you might run a penknife through into the north wind And then let them settle between them which was the sharper I know that when you pulled it out again the wind would be after it like a cat after a mouse and you would know soon enough you were not at the back of the north wind Still this room was not very cold except when the north wind blew stronger than usual the room I have to do with now was always cold except in summer when the sun took the matter into his own hands Indeed I am not sure whether I ought to call it a room at all for it was just a loft where they kept hay and straw and oats for the horses And when little Diamond but stop I must tell you that his father who was a coachman had named him after a favourite horse and his mother had had no objection when little Diamond then lay there in bed he could hear the horses under him munching away in the dark or moving sleepily in their dreams For Diamond s father had built him a bed in the loft with boards all round it because they had so little room in their own end over the coach house and Diamond s father put old Diamond in the stall under the bed because he was a quiet horse and did not go to sleep standing but lay down like a reasonable creature But although he was a surprisingly reasonable creature yet when young Diamond woke in the middle of the night and felt the bed shaking in the blasts of the north wind he could not help wondering whether if the wind should blow the house down and he were to fall through into the manger old Diamond mightn t eat him up before he knew him in his night gown And although old Diamond was very quiet all night long yet when he woke he got up like an earthquake and then young Diamond knew what o clock it was or at least what was to be done next which was to go to sleep again as fast as he could children's book written by Scottish author George MacDonald. It was serialized in the children's magazine Good Words for the Young beginning in 1868 and was published in book form in 1871. It is a fantasy centered on a boy named Diamond and his adventures with the North Wind. Diamond travels together with the mysterious Lady North Wind through the night. The book includes the fairy tale Little Daylight, which has been pulled out as an independent work or separately added to other collections of his fairy tales. About a young boy named Diamond: He is a very sweet little boy who makes joy everywhere he goes. He fights despair and gloom and brings peace to his family. One night as he is trying to sleep, Diamond repeatedly plugs up a hole in the loft, also his bedroom wall, to stop the wind from blowing in. However, he soon finds out that this is stopping the North Wind from seeing through her window. Diamond befriends her, and North Wind lets him fly with her, taking him on several adventures. Though the North Wind does good deeds and helps people, she also does seemingly terrible things. On one of her assignments, she must sink a ship. Yet everything she does that seems bad leads to something good. The North Wind seems to be a representation of Pain and Death, working according to God's will for something good.

He was a mentor of Lewis Carroll, a friend of Mark Twain's, and a man who helped shape the works of authors like Tolkien. We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection. Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public. The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature, and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades. The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works. To ensure a high quality product, each title has been meticulously hand-curated by our staff. Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work. We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience. Folklore and the Fantastic in Nineteenth-century British Fiction Jason Marc Harris, 2008. Arguing that the tensions between folk metaphysics and Enlightenment values produce the literary fantastic, Jason Marc Harris demonstrates that a negotiation with folklore was central to the canon of British literature. He uncovers the ideological agendas articulated using folkloric elements in works by James Barrie, William Carleton, James Hogg, Sheridan Le Fanu, George MacDonald, and Robert Louis Stevenson, among others, and reveals the rhetorical strategies for applying superstition in both folkloric and literary contexts of the supernatural.
