Nonlinear Pedagogy and the Athletic Skills Model James Rudd,Ian Renshaw,Geert Savelsbergh,Jia Yi Chow,Will Roberts,Daniel Newcombe,Keith Davids,2021-06-27 This book offers an ecological conceptualisation of physical literacy Re embracing our ancestry as hunter gatherers we gain a new appreciation and understanding of the importance of play not only in terms of how children learn but also in showing us as educators how we can lay the foundations for lifelong physical activity The concept of physical literacy has been recognised and understood throughout history by different communities across the globe Today as governments grapple with the multiple challenges of urban life in the 21st century we can learn from our forebears how to put play at the centre of children's learning in order to build a more enduring physically active society. This book examines contemporary pedagogical approaches such as constraints-led teaching, nonlinear pedagogy and the athletic skills model, which are underpinned by the theoretical framework of Ecological Dynamics. It is suggested that through careful design, these models aimed at children as well as young athletes can: i) encourage play and facilitate physical activity and motor learning in children of different ages, providing them with the foundational skills needed for leading active lives; and ii) develop young athletes in elite sports programmes in an ethical, enriching and supportive manner. Through this text, scientists, academics and practitioners in the sub-disciplines of motor learning and motor development, physical education, sports pedagogy and physical activity and exercise domains will better understand how to design programmes that encourage play and thereby develop the movement skills, self-regulating capacities, motivation and proficiency of people so that they can move skilfully, effectively and efficiently while negotiating changes throughout the human lifespan.
