DECARCERATION

COMMUNITY TREATMENT AND THE DEVIANT- A RADICAL VIEW

Are early release programs, community rehabilitation centers, and halfway houses effective in treating criminals and the mentally ill? Or are such programs a danger to society and to the deviants themselves?

Decarceration Community Treatment And The Deviant A Radical View:

Decarceration Andrew T. Scull, 2014-11-20 Decarceration is a word which has not yet entered the dictionary But it is increasingly being used to designate a process with momentous implications for all of us It is shorthand for a state sponsored policy of closing down asylums prisons and reformatories Mad people criminals and delinquents are being discharged or refused admission to the dumps in which they have been traditionally housed Instead they are to be left at large to be coped with in the community We are told by those who run programs of this sort that keeping the criminal and the mentally disturbed in our midst is humane We are informed that it is a more effective means of curing or rehabilitating such people And miracle of miracles we learn that this approach is also cheaper With an alternative which embraces such an array of virtues who can be surprised to learn that mental hospitals are emptying faster and faster and that with each passing day the convicted felon s chances of going to prison grow more remote On closer examination it turns out that this whole enterprise is built on a foundation of sand The claim that leaving deviants at large cures or rehabilitates them is just that a claim Little or no solid evidence can be offered in its support Instead it rests uneasily on a cloud of rhetoric and wishful thinking Most people s conception of the humane does not embrace placing senile men and women in the hands of rapacious nursing home operators or turning loose the perpetrators of violent crimes under conditions which guarantee that they will receive little or no supervision Yet as decarceration has been implemented this is what has been happening Much of the time it appears as if the policy makers simply do not know what will happen when their schemes are put into effect Nor do they seem very concerned to find out Often they do not even know where those they have dumped back on the rest of us are to be found
