Deep Time Reckoning Vincent Ialenti, 2020-09-22 A guide to long term thinking how to envision the far future of Earth We live on a planet careening toward environmental collapse that will be largely brought about by our own actions And yet we struggle to grasp the scale of the crisis barely able to imagine the effects of climate change just ten years from now let alone the multi millennial timescales of Earth s past and future life span In this book Vincent Ialenti offers a guide for envisioning the planet s far future to become as he terms it more skilled deep time reckoners The challenge he says is to learn to inhabit a longer now Ialenti takes on two overlapping crises the Anthropocene our current moment of human caused environmental transformation and the deflation of expertise today s popular mockery and institutional erosion of expert authority The second crisis he argues is worsening the effects of the first Hearing out scientific experts who study a wider time span than a Facebook timeline is key to tackling our planet s emergency Astrophysicists geologists historians evolutionary biologists climatologists archaeologists and others can teach us the art of long termism For a case study in long term thinking Ialenti turns to Finland s nuclear waste repository Safety Case experts These scientists forecast far future glaciations climate changes earthquakes and more over the coming tens of thousands or even hundreds of thousands or millions of years They are not pop culture futurists but data driven disciplined technical experts using the power of patterns to construct detailed scenarios and quantitative models of the far future This is the kind of time literacy we need if we are to survive the Anthropocene Deep-Time Images in the Age of Globalization Oscar Moro Abadía, Margaret W.

Conkey, Josephine McDonald, 2024-05-13 This open access volume explores the impact of globalization on the contemporary study of deep time art The volume explores how early rock art research s Eurocentric biases have shifted with broadened global horizons to facilitate new conversations and discourses in new post colonial realities The book uses seven main themes to explore theoretical methodological ethical and practical developments that are orienting the study of Pleistocene and Holocene arts in the age of globalization Compiling studies as diverse as genetics visualization with the proliferation of increasingly sophisticated archaeological techniques means that vast quantities of materials and techniques are now incorporated into the analysis of the world s visual cultures Deep Time Images in the Age of Globalization aims to promote critical reflection on the multitude of positive and negative impacts that globalization has wrought in rock art research The volume brings new theoretical frameworks as well as engagement with indigenous knowledge and perspectives from art history It highlights technical methodological and interpretive developments and showcases rock art characteristics from previously unknown in the global north geographic areas This book provides comparative approaches on rock art globally and scrutinises the impacts of globalization on research preservation and management of deep time art This book will appeal to archaeologists social scientists and art historians working in the field as well as lovers of rock art Refining the Interpretation of Nitrogen Isotopes in Deep Time Systems Magali Ader, Thomas Algeo, Pierre Sansjofre, Eva

Stüeken, Shucheng Xie, 2022-08-01      Deep Time Noah Heringman, 2023-01-03 How the concept of deep time began as a metaphor used by philosophers poets and naturalists in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries In this interdisciplinary book Noah Heringman argues that the concept of deep time most often associated with geological epochs began as a metaphorical language used by philosophers poets and naturalists of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries to explore the origins of life beyond the written record Their ideas about the abyss of time created a way to think about the prehistoric before it was possible to assign dates to the fossil record Heringman examining stories about the deep past by visionary thinkers ranging from William Blake to Charles Darwin challenges the conventional wisdom that the idea of deep time came forth fully formed from the modern science of geology Instead he argues it has a rich imaginative history Heringman considers Johann Reinhold Forster and Georg Forster naturalists on James Cook s second voyage around the world who inspired by encounters with Pacific islanders connected the scale of geological time to human origins and cultural evolution Georges Louis Leclerc Comte de Buffon who drew on travel narrative antiquarian works and his own fieldwork to lay out the first modern geological timescale Blake and Johann Gottfried Herder who used the language of fossils and artifacts to promote ancient ballads and prehistoric song and Darwin s exploration of the reciprocal effects of geological and human time Deep time Heringman shows has figural and imaginative dimensions beyond its geological meaning      Digressions in Deep Time Declan Lloyd, Warren Mortimer, 2024-06-18 Deep time is a term which attempts to capture temporal scales far beyond human comprehension These are stretches of time epitomised by geological and cosmic scale processes vast enough to make the entirety of human existence appear as little more than a footnote The past few years have seen a boom in texts dedicated to the study of deep time extending across a broad range of disciplines which fall markedly outside of its geological roots These studies are unified by two ideas in particular that deep time thinking and ecocriticism should be considered in conjunction and that literature and the arts play a vital role in fostering a deep time awareness Digressions in Deep Time is the first collection of essays which considers the multifarious representations of deep time across literature and the arts assembling the work of a wide range of prominent scholars whose research frequently engages with temporality and ecocriticism Featured contributions include work by the Pulitzer prize winning author John McPhee who popularised the term deep time in the late seventies as well as chapters by Richard Irvine author of An Anthropology of Deep Time Benjamin Morgan author of The Outward Mind and Andrew Tate author of Apocalyptic Fiction      Deep Time, Dark Times David Wood, 2018-12-04 The new geological epoch we call the Anthropocene is not just a scientific classification It marks a radical transformation in the background conditions of life on Earth one taken for granted by much of who we are and what we hope for Never before has a species possessed both a geological scale grasp of the history of the Earth and a sober understanding of its own likely fate Our situation forces us to confront questions both philosophical and of real practical urgency We need to rethink who we are what agency means today how to deal with the passions stirred by our circumstances whether our manner of dwelling on

Earth is open to change and ultimately What is to be done Our future that of our species and of all the fellow travelers on the planet depend on it The real world consequences of climate change bring new significance to some very traditional philosophical questions about reason agency responsibility community and man s place in nature The focus is shifting from imagining and promoting the good life to the survival of the species Deep Time Dark Times challenges us to reimagine ourselves as a species taking on a geological consciousness Drawing promiscuously on the work of Nietzsche Heidegger Foucault Derrida Deleuze and other contemporary French thinkers as well as the science of climate change David Wood reflects on the historical series of displacements and de centerings of both the privilege of the Earth and of the human from Copernicus through Darwin and Freud to the declaration of the age of the Anthropocene He argues for the need to develop a new temporal phronesis and to radically rethink who we are in respect to solidarity with other humans and responsibility for the nonhuman stakeholders with which we share the planet In these brief lively chapters Wood poses a range of questions centered on our individual and collective political agency Might not human exceptionalism be reborn as a sort of hyperbolic responsibility rather than privilege
