Cause and Correlation in Biology Bill Shipley, 2002-08 This book goes beyond the truism that correlation does not imply causation and explores the logical and methodological relationships between correlation and causation It presents a series of statistical methods that can test and potentially discover cause effect relationships between variables in situations in which it is not possible to conduct randomised or experimentally controlled experiments Many of these methods are quite new and most are generally unknown to biologists In addition to describing how to conduct these statistical tests the book also puts the methods into historical context and explains when they can and cannot justifiably be used to test or discover causal claims Written in a conversational style that minimises technical jargon

the book is aimed at practising biologists and advanced students and assumes only a very basic knowledge of introductory statistics

Causality for Artificial Intelligence Jordi Vallverdú, 2024-06-28 How can we teach machine learning to identify causal patterns in data This book explores the very notion of causality identifying from a naturalistic and evolutionary perspective how living systems deal with causal relationships At the same time using this knowledge to identify the best ways to apply such biological models in machine learning scenarios One of the more fundamental challenges for AI experts is to design machines that can understand the world identifying the basic rules that govern reality Statistics are powerful and fundamental for this process but they are only one of the necessary tools Counterfactual thinking is the other part of the necessary process that will help machines to become intelligent This book explains the paths that can lead to algorithmic causality It is essential reading for those who are not afraid of thinking at the interface of various academic disciplines or fields AI machine learning philosophy neuroscience anthropology psychology computer sciences and who are interested in the analysis of causal thinking and the ways in which cognitive systems natural or artificial can act in order to understand their environment Professor Vallverd is currently working on biomimetic cognitive architectures and multicognitive systems His research has explored two main areas epistemology and cognition Since his early Ph D research on epistemic controversies he has analyzed several aspects of computational epistemology His latest research has focused on the causal challenges of machine learning techniques particularly deep learning One of his most promising advances is statistics meets causal graph reasoning via Directed Acyclic Graphs which still has several conceptual paths that need to be explored and identified Counterfactual reasoning is a fundamental part of these open debates which are under the analysis of Prof Vallverd His current research is supported as part of the following projects GEHUCT and ICREA Acad mia

Exploratory Causal Analysis with Time Series Data James M. McCracken, 2022-06-01 Many scientific disciplines rely on observational data of systems for which it is difficult or impossible to implement controlled experiments Data analysis techniques are required for identifying causal information and relationships directly from such observational data This need has led to the development of many different time series causality approaches and tools including transfer entropy convergent cross mapping CCM and Granger causality statistics A practicing analyst can explore the literature to find many proposals for identifying drivers and causal connections in time series data sets Exploratory causal analysis ECA provides a framework for exploring potential causal structures in time series data sets and is characterized by a myopic goal to determine which data series from a given set of series might be seen as the primary driver In this work ECA is used on several synthetic and empirical data sets and it is found that all of the tested time series causality tools agree with each other and intuitive notions of causality for many simple systems but can provide conflicting causal inferences for more complicated systems It is proposed that such disagreements between different time series causality tools during ECA might provide deeper insight into the data than could be found otherwise
