Change Of Perspective:

Changing Perspective Solomon A. Okang, 2026-02-25 What if the greatest shift in your life begins not with changed circumstances but with changed vision In Changing Perspectives Pastor Solomon A Okang explores how God reshapes lives by first reshaping the way we see Drawing from Scripture spanning Genesis to the New Testament this book walks readers through stories of creation calling waiting suffering worship and redemption From Joseph s prison to David s praise from prophetic voices to the teachings of Jesus and the transformation of Paul each chapter reveals how perspective determines purpose With pastoral clarity and spiritual depth this book invites readers to move beyond fear confusion and frustration into faith clarity and trust in God s greater plan Whether navigating hardship unanswered prayers or seasons of transition Changing Perspectives helps readers recognize God s hand at work even when life feels uncertain This is not simply a call to think differently but an invitation to see life through God s eternal lens Ten Steps Toward Greater Operational Efficiency in Higher Education Carlos Gooden, Mike Hoffshire, 2025-12-29 Featuring a diverse cohort of seasoned leaders in higher education this book outlines a flexible ten step framework for achieving operational efficiency and building a robust internal infrastructure across any functional area within an institution The framework identifies ten essential components for creating an effective student centered and equitable functional area navigating change and context data budgeting strategic planning day to day operations university policy and procedure organizational staffing training and development communication and collaboration and strategic enrollment management Each chapter examines one of these components while providing practical steps for implementation and equipping leaders with the knowledge and tools they need to foster positive change within their roles Whether an emerging leader or a senior professional this text is designed to support all higher education directors deans provosts and division leaders in their administrative goals Internet Use and Psychological Well-Being Among Children and Adolescents Yangu Pan, Zhaojun Teng, Daniel Tan Lei Shek, Chun Chen, 2024-01-22 Internet use e g smartphone use social media use is ubiquitous in our daily lives and plays an increasingly important role in human well being Today s adolescents and their parents spend significant amounts of time on technological devices such as smartphones especially during COVID 19 In this year new research shows that nearly half of American teenagers say they use the Internet almost constantly 95% of American teens have smartphones and about 54% of teens said it would be somewhat hard to give up social media Hence further research on the relationship between Internet use and psychological well being among children and adolescents is worth pursuing At the same time a new interest in this area of research is parental technoference which was defined as regular interruptions to real time face to face communications interactions or time spent together among family members because of parental use of technology Technoference has become a common phenomenon in many families with children and evidence has been identified that extended parental time on technological devices e g smartphones could have negative effects on parent child relationships and children s wellbeing For example parental phubbing is regarded as a typical parental technofence and this term is used widely in some countries around the world which has been demonstrated to be detrimental to their children s developmental outcomes and cause various psychological health problems

Perspectives on Purposeful Activity Rita P. Fleming Cottrell,1996 Samling af artikler fra AJOT American Journal of Occupational Therapy     American Journal of Psychotherapy ,1947     Theories of Learning and Studies of Instructional Practice Timothy Koschmann,2011-04-19 This is a book about an attempt to change the way math was taught in a particular classroom Its title plays on our everyday usage of the terms theory and practice In education these terms are conventionally treated oppositionally we have theories about what we should do and we have what teachers actually do do In this way theory stands prior logically and chronologically to practice practice inevitably becoming theory s imperfect realization We seek in this volume however to develop a different stance with regard to the relationship between the two Taking the details of instructional practice as our principle object of study we explore what role theories of learning might play in illuminating such practices The book is about actual practices by which teaching is done and how contemporary theories of learning might help us understand those practices It seeks to provide a foundation for future practice based inquiry in education by addressing the methodological question How do we go about studying instructional practice in a principled way     Collected Papers ,1913     Optical Illusions of Reversible Perspective John Edward Wallace Wallin,1905     Astronomical Observations Made at the University Observatory Oxford: Researches in Stellar parallax by the aid of photography University of Oxford. Observatory,1889     How Motion Pictures are Made Homer Croy,1918     Sartre and Psychoanalysis Betty Cannon,1991 Betty Cannon is the first to explore the implications of Sartrean philosophy for the Freudian psychoanalytic tradition Drawing upon Sartre s work as well as her own experiences as a practicing therapist she shows that Sartre was a fellow traveler who appreciated Freud s psychoanalytic achievements but rebelled against the determinism of his metatheory The mind Sartre argued cannot be reduced to a collection of drives and structures nor is it enslaved to its past as Freud s work suggested Sartre advocated an existentialist psychoanalysis based on human freedom and the self s ability to reshape

its own meaning and value Through the Sartrean approach Cannon offers a resolution to the crisis in psychoanalytic metatheory created by the current emphasis on relational needs By comparing Sartre with Freud and influential post Freudians like Melanie Klein Otto Kernber Margaret Mahler D W Winnicott Heinz Kohut Harry Stack Sullivan and Jacques Lacan she demonstrates why the Sartrean model transcends the limitations of traditional Freudian metatheory In the process she adds a new dimension to our understanding of Sartre and his place in twentieth century philosophy Social Work, Mental Health, and Public Policy in Diverse Contexts Sheying Chen,2023-08-29 The discipline of social policy oftentimes deemed a part of social work as a profession was born in the West Unlike social policy that started with the post war idea of a welfare state in the mid 20th century social work traces its roots to individual casework pioneered by the Charity Organization Society COS early social administration including state wide poverty relief an advocacy effort of the COS but with deep roots in the English Poor Laws of the 17th century and social action emphasizing political activities to improve social conditions originating from the Settlement House Movement which began in the 1880s The development of social work is historically intertwined with that of public welfare philanthropy and charity and is an inherently international subject This conception is broader than international social work as a discrete field of professional practice which crosses geopolitical borders and all levels of social and economic organizations with a focus on development However each nation has a story of its own in terms of professionalization of social work in the evolution of public welfare and philanthropic charitable undertaking within its particular economic political social and cultural settings A wide ranging and in depth study of various especially non Western country cases is essential to an adequate comprehensive understanding of the social work profession which is also a basic requirement of its value of diversity China is undoubtedly an important case with the largest population on earth It is also unique in view of so called Chinese characteristics which are sometimes fundamentally different from other particularly Western societies It is even intriguing given the country's lengthy complex history and its recent rapid rise to a global superpower with a claim of national goals and core values that seem to be rather considerable to social work as a helping profession Therefore any significant lessons learned from the Chinese experiences would help with a better international understanding and further advancement of social work and public welfare at a global scale Pakistan International Monetary Fund, International Monetary Fund.
