Goy Adi Ophir, Ishay Rosen-Zvi, 2018-06-14 Goy Israel's Others and the Birth of the Gentile traces the development of the term and category of the goy from the Bible to rabbinic literature Adi Ophir and Ishay Rosen Zvi show that the category of the goy was born much later than scholars assume in fact not before the first century CE They explain that the abstract concept of the gentile first appeared in Paul's Letters However it was only in rabbinic literature that this category became the center of a stable and long standing structure that involved God the Halakha history and salvation The authors narrate this development through chronological analyses of the various biblical and post biblical texts including the Dead Sea scrolls the New Testament and early patristics the Mishnah and rabbinic Midrash and synchronic analyses of several discursive structures Looking at some of the goy's instantiations in contemporary Jewish culture in Israel and the United States the study concludes with an examination of the extraordinary resilience of the Jew goy division and asks how would Judaism look like without the gentile as its binary contrast

Euthanasia Talk: Euthanasia Discourse, General Practice and End-of-life Care in the Netherlands Frances Norwood,2005 In the Netherlands nearly one quarter of all people who die initiate a euthanasia request with their doctor yet 9 in 10 of those who initiate a request do not die by euthanasia Nine in 10 die instead of natural causes The Netherlands legalized euthanasia killing a person at that person's explicit request and assisted suicide giving a person the means to kill themselves at that person's explicit request by court decision in 1984 and again by legislation in 2001 With nearly a quarter of people who die in Holland not to mention their family members and health practitioners participating in this dialogue and so few participating in the act it begs the questions what are Dutch people talking about when they talk euthanasia and how does euthanasia talk impact the end of Dutch life After a 15 month ethnographic study of euthanasia and end of life care in the Netherlands with huisartsen Dutch general practitioners their end of life patients and their families I found two things First in practice Dutch euthanasia is more often a discourse than it is a life ending act a discourse firmly embedded in the cultural and historical contexts that make Dutch people Dutch Using a Foucauldian concept of discourse I argue that the Dutch have created a script that teaches citizens how to think and feel about death and ultimately how to die Second I found that euthanasia talk holds a wide array of meanings beyond the immediate the obvious planning for death One of the most important is to affirm social bonds and social life at the end of Dutch life People choose not to die euthanasia deaths because of the feeling of social connection that engagement in euthanasia discourse fosters Through engagement in euthanasia talk dying individuals maintain connection to family and society giving them something they need to remain living This dissertation is intended to provide ethnographic data not currently available on the modern day practice of euthanasia and to add to a growing body of literature on death dying and the role of the state Literature and Memory Ansgar Nünning, Marion Gymnich, Roy Sommer, 2006 Language Teacher Identities Matthew Clarke, 2008 This book explores the development of the first cohort of students to complete a new Bachelor of Education in English language teaching in the United Arab Emirates theorizing the students learning to teach in terms of the discursive construction of a teaching identity within an evolving community of practice Pious Science Berna Arslan, 2009 EU and the Mediterranean Peter Seeberg, 2007 Modern Arab Journalism Noha Mellor, 2007 An introduction to the subject of Arab journalism drawing on Arabic as well as English language sources Managing Disobedience as Crime Hadar Aviram, 2005 Human Rights and Free Trade in Mexico Ariadna Estévez, 2008-05-15 This book demonstrates how human rights instruments and values have brought different movements together in the struggle against free trade under the banners of state duty and law enforcement with their underlying principles of equality and human dignity Special emphasis is placed on how subjectivities influence identification with certain values and legal or political strategies Furthermore by focusing on the understanding of human rights by social agents the book also shows that specific human rights have more political potential for certain types of subjects in the struggle against free trade than others such as the right to development the rights of women and the right to food This analysis is conducted with a specifically Latin American theorization of human rights that challenges both Eurocentric scholarly works on the issue and the arguments of European activists directed at the allegedly Western authorship of human rights discourses Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 2003 Kulturrevolution , 2004 Bibliografisch Repertorium Van de Wijsbegeerte) , 2003
