Calculator Proficiency with Casio fx-991ES and fx-991ES PLUS

December 13, 2012 - Thursday

As a former quizzer and board passer, what do you think are the reasons why students do not get the correct answer?

I personally classify them into three:

The most dominant and tragic reason is carelessness. Need I explain? :P

In most cases, difficulty is not the problem, but familiarity. How are you supposed to arrive with a correct solution and answer when you don't even know where to start?!

Finally, there might not be enough time to solve the problem. You can solve most problems given sufficient time, regardless of the difficulty.

Are calculator techniques really necessary?

No, they are not.

But in competitions, one needs all the advantage he/she can get. Knowledge of calculator techniques is a huge edge.

It is necessary to develop proficiency with calculators as they are an extension of our solving capabilities.

However, one must not heavily rely on a calculator as it also has its limitations. Remember that the calculator is only as good as its user.

Then, what is the greatest advantage in using calculator techniques?

Calculator techniques allow you to solve the problem with LPE—Least Possible Effort.

After having solved the problem with LPE, you can buy some time for three R's—Review, Rest and Return to the game!

What are the requirements to use or develop calculator techniques?

There is actually no need to study in review schools offering calculator technique classes or to invest in expensive calculator technique books.

What we need are only the following:

1. The underlying principles regarding the subject matter
2. Technical knowledge on how a calculator works
3. A certain degree of laziness

"I always choose a lazy person to do a difficult job because he will find an easy way to do it."

—Bill Gates

Are there instances when conventional solutions are preferred over calculator solutions?

Yes! You must not use calculator techniques when:

1. The conventional solution is actually more efficient than the calculator techniques. It defeats the purpose of using calculator techniques. DURN!
2. You have no knowledge of the underlying principles of the subject matter. You are only supposed to use shortcuts when you know how to get there the long way. Otherwise, four letters: L-O-S-T.
3. The calculator techniques clash and corrupt the principles that you already know. When it causes you to doubt something you were once sure of. STOP!

Specifying the Calculation Mode

- | | |
|-----------|--|
| 1. COMP | General calculations |
| 2. CMPLX | Complex number calculations |
| 3. STAT | Statistical and regression formulas |
| 4. BASE-N | Calculations involving specific number systems (binary, octal, decimal, hexadecimal) |
| 5. EQN | Equation solution |
| 6. MATRIX | Matrix calculations |
| 7. TABLE | Generation of a number table based on an expression |
| 8. VECTOR | Vector calculations |

Variables

The calculator has preset variables:

- | | |
|---------------|----------------------------|
| fx-991ES | 6 (A, B, C, D, X, Y) |
| fx-991ES PLUS | 8 (A, B, C, D, E, F, X, Y) |

Operations

1. To assign a value to a variable (all modes except EQN and TABLE)
2. To use the value of a variable in a calculation
3. To recall the value of a variable
4. To clear the contents of a variable
