

The Tenth

From "Tales of the West" by Stewart O'Nan

It was a long, long winter in the Sierra, and "Tales of the West" was the only book that could be read in the dark.

I didn't even know then that the book was called "Tales of the West" and that it was a collection of stories by different authors. I thought it was one long story, and I was reading it because I was bored. I was sitting in a room with a bookshelf full of books, and I was reading "Tales of the West" because I was bored.

The "Tales of the West" is a book of stories, and it is a book of stories because it is a book of stories. It is a book of stories, and it is a book of stories because it is a book of stories. It is a book of stories, and it is a book of stories because it is a book of stories.

When the book is read, it is a book of stories, and it is a book of stories
stories.
