

AUTHOR'S PURPOSE

The author's purpose of a text refers to why they wrote the text.

OVERVIEW

The author's purpose refers to the underlying intent or goal behind a piece of writing. It is the reason why the author chooses to communicate their thoughts, ideas, or information through the text. Understanding the author's purpose helps readers grasp the intended message and engage with the content more effectively.

EXAMPLES

- To Inform: Authors who intend to inform can include journalists, historians, and academics.
- To Entertain: Most fiction authors write novels and short stories to entertain their readers.
- To Persuade: An argumentative essay or written debate points might be constructed to persuade people of a certain perspective.

Authors Intention:

Intentions in the Experience of Meaning Raymond W. Gibbs, 1999-09-13 What do our assumptions about authorship matter for our experience of meaning This book examines the debates in the humanities and social sciences over whether authorial intentions can or should constrain our interpretation of language and art Scholars assume that understanding of linguistic and artistic meaning should not be constrained by beliefs about authors and their possible intentions in creating a human artifact It is argued here that people are strongly disposed to infer intentionality when understanding oral speech written texts artworks and many other human actions Although ordinary people and scholars may infer meanings that diverge from or extend beyond what authors intend our experience of human artifacts as meaningful is fundamentally tied to our assumptions of intentionality This challenges the traditional ideas of intentions as existing solely in the minds of individuals and formulates a new conceptual framework for examining if and when intentions influence the interpretation of meaning

Revising Fiction, Fact, and Faith Nathaniel Goldberg, Chris Gavaler, 2020-07-01 This book addresses how our revisionary practices account for relations between texts and how they are read It offers an overarching philosophy of revision concerning works of fiction fact and faith revealing unexpected insights about the philosophy of language the metaphysics of fact and fiction and the history and philosophy of science and religion Using the novels of J R R Tolkien as exemplars the authors introduce a fundamental distinction between the purely physical and the linguistic aspects of texts They then demonstrate how two competing theories of reference descriptivism and referentialism are instead constitutive of a single semantic account needed to explain all kinds of revision The authors also propose their own metaphysical foundations of fiction and fact The next part of the book brings the authors philosophy of revision into dialogue with Thomas Kuhn s famous analysis of factual and specifically scientific change It also discusses a complex episode in the history of paleontology demonstrating how scientific and popular texts can diverge over time Finally the authors expand their philosophy of revision to religious texts arguing that rather than being distinct such texts are always read as other kinds that faith tends to be more important as evidence for religious texts than for others and that the latter explains why religious communities tend to have remarkable historical longevity Revising Fiction Fact and Faith offers a unique and comprehensive account of the philosophy of revision It will be of interest to a wide range of scholars and advanced students working in philosophy of language metaphysics philosophy of literature literary theory and criticism and history and philosophy of science and religion

Can AI Proclaim Christ? Nicholas Alan Keune, 2025-09-03 Keune s research began with a nagging question could someone come to a saving faith in Christ based on their interactions with an AI This simple question led to a thoroughgoing investigation of linguistics and hermeneutics and the criteria that an AI would need to satisfy The result is a linguistic hermeneutic ethical and sacramental investigation stressing the importance of the story formed community in authenticating performances of Christian faith This work outlines the case that current AI systems are capable of inferential semantics As a result they can produce texts which are perceived as meaningful Many hermeneutic and linguistic theories therefore are unable to help differentiate an AI from a human generated text which can lead to problematically unqualified conclusions The effective qualification of these conclusions can be provided by grounding hermeneutics in the narrative theology of a story formed community New Collegeville Bible Commentary: Old Testament Daniel Durken,2015-12-17 Concise and accessible this one volume edition of the New Collegeville Bible Commentary Old Testament draws together the individual contributions to the Old Testament series and offers them to readers in a convenient and attractive format Written by an array of respected scholars the individual commentaries collected here bring expert insight into the Old Testament to Bible study participants teachers students preachers and all readers of Scripture A first rate reliable resource for Bible study and reflection the New Collegeville Bible Commentary Old Testament answers the Second Vatican Council s call to make access to Scripture open wide to the Christian faithful The Eclipse of Biblical Narrative Hans W.
