Autobiographical reflections Paul Tillich, Shapers of Southern History John B. Boles, 2004 This volume gathers personal recollections by fifteen eminent historians of the American South Coming from distinctive backgrounds traveling diverse career paths and practicing different kinds of history the contributors exemplify the field's richness on many levels As they reflect on why they joined the profession and chose their particular research specialties these historians write eloquently of family and upbringing teachers and mentors defining events and serendipitous opportunities The struggle for civil rights was the defining experience for several contributors Peter H Wood remembers how black fans of the St Louis Cardinals erupted in applause for the Dodgers Jackie Robinson I realized for the first time writes Wood that there must be something even bigger than hometown loyalties dividing Americans Gender equality is another frequent concern in the essays Anne Firor Scott tells of her advisor s ridicule when childbirth twice delayed Scott s dissertation With great effort I managed to write two chapters but Professor Handlin was moved to inquire whether I planned to have a baby every chapter Yet another prominent theme is the reconciliation of the professional and the personal as when Bill C Malone traces his scholarly interests back to the memories of growing up poor on an East Texas cotton farm and finding escape and diversion in the sounds of hillbilly music Always candid and often witty each essay is a road map through the intellectual terrain of southern history as practiced during the last half of the twentieth century Autobiographical Notes, Letters and Reflections Thomas Smyth,1914 Remembering-- Mac Roy Rasor,2008 A Second Look in the Rearview Mirror Mortimer Jerome Adler,1994-04-01 The author describes his conversion at eighty four to Christianity and his editorial oversight of the controversial second edition of Great Books of the Western World Autobiographical Reflections on Southern Religious History John B. Boles,2001 Invoking the strong ties they sense between the courses of their lives and their careers the sixteen historians of religion who have contributed to Autobiographical Reflections on Southern Religious History share their thoughts and motivations In these highly personal essays both pioneering and promising young scholars discuss their work and interests as they recall how the circumstances of their upbringing and education steered them toward religious history They tell of their own time and place and of their growing awareness of how religion ties into larger social issues gender class and most notably race Indeed one essay begins I was asked to write about why I came to study religion in the South It was then I realized that it was because my grandfather had been lynched Lutheran Jewish Catholic Methodist and Episcopal viewpoints are represented as of course are Baptist Some contributors have stood in the pulpit others at least commenced their higher education with that aim While some contributors were born and reared and now work in the Bible Belt others are outsiders physically philosophically or both Some came from intellectual traditions others were the first in their family to attend college Despite their common interest in its history southern religion is anything but an intellectual abstraction for the contributors to this book It is a potent force and here sixteen men and women offer themselves as proof of its power to shape lives Autobiographical Reflections of Scholarly Pioneers Mark Tadajewski,2019 Autobiographical Reflections Rajendra Chandra Das,1976 An Unmastered Past Leo Lowenthal,Martin Jay,1987 The author provides insights into his intellectual career as a founding member of the Frankfurt Institute of Social Research and includes remembrances of many of his former colleagues Passport to Life Emanuel Tanay,2004 Memoirs of a Jew who was born as Emanuel Tenenwurz in 1928 in Vilna and moved to Miech w as a child The Polish antisemitism he experienced before the

Paul Tillich and His System of Paradoxical Correlation Charles Amarkwei,2020-05-05 This book shows the paradoxical mode by which Christians keep their faith in the Christian message as they relate with science It reveals how Paul Tillich s method of correlation helps us to understand how Christians interact with science without necessarily conflicting separating and dialoguing and synthesizing with each other It rules out natural theology but provides a non eclectic theology of nature that frees Christians to be involved in science meaningfully and without undermining their faith
