Last Rights Barbara Logue, 1993-01-01 Several recent trends demographic social and economic are increasing the incidence and public support of deliberate death among the old and sick The number of elderly people is at an all time high Medical technology can prolong the lives of these men and women but it cannot keep them independent free of pain or competent to manage their own affairs Never before have so many been so sick for so long Changes in the size and structure of the American family make long term home care almost impossible while exorbitant health costs and scarce resources limit the provision of highquality care by paid workers Researcher Barbara J Logue refers to any deliberate behavior that causes death as death control She points out that death control like birth control involves very serious and deeply personal decisions choices that ought to be made on the basis of reliable information with care and compassion without coercion She goes on to assert that like birth control death control should be performed legally and with the help of the medical community Without access to assisted deaths many frail old people are left to endure wretched deaths Some die slowly of neglect or malnutrition in nursing homes Others take their own lives sometimes by violent means while they can still act independently because they are afraid that no one will help them if they wait until they are very sick Some die alone fearful of implicating friends or relatives in their back alley euthanasia While some die too soon because they are poor uneducated or hard to manage others are overtreated and their deaths delayed because doctors and hospitals want to increase their income or fear prosecution if they help a patient die Barbara Logue describes these and many other hazards inherent in our present long term care system noting that all too often the system causes suffering instead of alleviating it After assessing the alternatives she urges that we must make compassionate death control as available as birth control We must regulate and monitor it like any other medical procedure taking steps to minimize the risks while maximizing the benefits

Breaking the Thread of Life Robert Barry, 2017-07-28 Suicide and how civilized people should respond to it is an increasingly controversial topic in modern society In Holland suicide is the third leading cause of death of people between the ages of fifteen and forty In the United States it is the second leading cause of death among older teenagers Laws prohibiting assisted suicide are being directly and boldly confronted by activists in the United States most notably Jack Kevorkian Meanwhile the American Civil Liberties Union has publicly declared suicide a fundamental human right that should be protected under the Constitution The Hemlock Society has introduced referenda in California Washington and Oregon to legalize suicide and assisted suicide The most vocal opposition to these initiatives has come from the Roman Catholic church Breaking the Thread of Life marshalls philosophical moral medical historical and theological arguments in support of the Roman Catholic position against suicide In a comprehensive study of the history of suicide Barry shows that Christian civilization was one of only a few early societies that was able to bring suicide under control He counters claims that Catholicism and the Bible endorse rational suicide Barry also analyzes arguments in support of the rationality of suicide and illuminates their biases inadequacies and dangers Barry presents the rationale for the Roman Catholic church's strong extensive and articulate opposition to efforts to gain legal and social endorsement of suicide and assisted suicide His book represents the most complete study of the classical Roman Catholic view of rational suicide to date and it will be of significant interest to philosophers theologians physicians and lawyers

Voluntary Euthanasia and the Common Law Margaret Otlowski,1997 Margaret Otlowski investigates the complex and controversial issue of active voluntary euthanasia She critically examines the criminal law prohibition of medically administered active voluntary euthanasia in common law jurisdictions and carefully looks at the situation as handled in practice The evidence of patient demands for active euthanasia and the willingness of some doctors to respond to patients requests is explored and an argument for reform of the law is made with reference to the position in the Netherlands where active voluntary euthanasia is now openly practiced
