

The Dragonfly Life Cycle

Adult

Fast flying and manoeuvrable aerial predators, seen both near and away from water. Males are usually territorial. Dragonflies live for around 1-8 weeks as adults.

Emergence

Larvae climb out of water usually on plant stems and emerge from the larval skin to become an adult. The process takes several hours, and it will be a few days before the adult is fully dried and coloured up.

Mating

Takes place in the 'wheel' formation. Male clasps female behind the head and she brings her abdomen up to meet him. May take a few minutes or several hours.

Larva

The main life stage, the aquatic larva lives underwater for between 3 months and 5 years, although usually 2-3 years. Voracious predators, they shed their skin up to 18 times as they grow. Found in almost all wetland habitats.

Egg Laying

Females may egg lay alone or 'in tandem', with the male still holding her. Some release eggs freely into the water, others insert them into plant material.
