Drawings Of Ingres:

Jean-auguste-dominique Ingres Maria Peitcheva,2017-09-23 Ingres's style was formed early in life and changed comparatively little. His earliest drawings such as the Portrait of a Man 1797 already show a suavity of outline and an extraordinary control of the parallel hatchings which model the forms. From the first his paintings are characterized by a firmness of outline reflecting his often quoted conviction that drawing is the probity of art. He believed color to be no more than an accessory to drawing explaining Drawing is not just reproducing contours it is not just the line drawing is also the expression the inner form the composition the modeling. See what is left after that Drawing is seven eighths of what makes up painting. He abhorred the visible brushstroke and made no recourse to the shifting effects of color and light on which the Romantic school depended he preferred local colors only faintly modeled in light by half tones. Whatever you know you must know it with sword in hand

Ingres Portrait Drawings Jean-Auguste-Dominique Ingres,1993-01-01 Ingres portrait drawings rank among the art's supreme achievements exhibiting the artist's brilliant draftsmanship and rare ability to capture character and personal style. This splendid volume presents Ingres portraits of many affluent and distinguished men and women of his age among them the celebrated French composer Charles Gounod. Sources include the Louvre Museum the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Pierpont Morgan Library

Ingres: 162 Master Drawings Blagoy Kiroff,2015-05-17 Ingres's style was formed early in life and changed comparatively little. His earliest drawings such as the Portrait of a Man 1797 already show a suavity of outline and an extraordinary control of the parallel hatchings which model the forms. His portrait drawings of which about 450 are extant are today among his most admired works. While a disproportionate number of them date from his difficult early years in Italy he continued to produce portrait drawings of his friends until the end of his life. Ingres drew his portrait drawings on wove paper which provided a smooth surface very different from the ribbed surface of laid paper which is nevertheless sometimes referred to today as Ingres paper. Drawings made in preparation for paintings are more varied in size and treatment than are the portrait drawings. He also drew a number of landscape views while in Rome but with the exception of the small tondo Raphael's Casino he painted no pure landscapes

Ingres: Portrait Drawings and Paintings Raya Yotova,2018-06-04 Jean Auguste Dominique Ingres 1780 1867 was a French Neoclassical painter. Although he considered himself to be a painter of history in the tradition of Nicolas Poussin and Jacques Louis David it is Ingres's portraits both painted and drawn that are recognized as his greatest legacy. Ingres was profoundly influenced by past artistic traditions and aspired to become the guardian of academic orthodoxy against the ascendant Romantic style exemplified by Eugene Delacroix. His expressive distortions of form and space made him an important precursor of modern art influencing Picasso Matisse and other modernists. He was finally recognized at the Salon in 1824 when his Raphaelesque painting of the Vow of Louis XIII was met with acclaim and Ingres was acknowledged as the leader of the Neoclassical school in France. Although the income from commissions for history paintings allowed him to paint fewer portraits his portrait of

Louis Francois Bertin marked his next popular success in 1833 The following year his indignation at the harsh criticism of his ambitious composition The Martyrdom of Saint Symphorian caused him to return to Italy where he assumed directorship of the French Academy in Rome in 1835 He returned to Paris in 1841 In his later years he painted new versions of many of his earlier compositions a series of designs for stained glass windows several important portraits of women and The Turkish Bath the last of his several Orientalist paintings of the female nude which he finished at the age of 83 Ingres
