

Styles of Interpersonal Communication

Three types of interpersonal communication.

Passive

Passive communicators tend to fail to express their own needs or feelings while yielding to others.

Aggressive

This type of communicator may try to exert control by using a loud voice, criticizing or even threatening other participants.

Assertive

It involves expressing your own needs and feelings while being open to others doing the same.

Skilled Interpersonal Communication Owen Hargie, 2021-11-29 Established as the foremost textbook on communication the seventh edition of Owen Hargie's Skilled Interpersonal Communication is thoroughly revised and updated with the latest research findings theoretical developments and applications The contribution of skilled interpersonal communication to success in both personal and professional contexts is now widely recognised and extensively researched People have a deep seated and universal need to interact with others and the greater their communicative ability the more satisfying and rewarding will be their lives The main focus of this book is on the identification analysis and evaluation of the core skills needed in these interactions The first two chapters provide details of the nature of interpersonal communication and socially skilled performance respectively with a review of the main theoretical perspectives pertaining to each The book then offers detailed accounts of the fourteen main skill areas nonverbal communication reinforcement questioning reflecting listening explaining self disclosure set induction closure assertiveness influencing negotiating and interacting in and leading group discussions The book concludes with a discussion on the ethical issues in interpersonal communication This new edition also features an extended section on groupthink and analyses the impact of the coronavirus pandemic on aspects such as greeting patterns and the effectiveness of Project Fear by the UK government to secure citizen compliance Written by one of the foremost international experts in the field this is essential reading for students of interpersonal communication in general and to qualified personnel and trainees in many fields Communication-centered Approach to Leadership Marilyn Macik-Frey, 2007 Communication is frequently cited as a critical component of leadership This study takes a significant theoretical departure from that view and embraces the realm of communication as a lens through which we understand leadership It proposes that leadership is inherently communicative Communication is viewed as more than a technique or component of leadership but rather the essence of leadership Barge 1994 Hackman Vickrey 1995 Communication is almost universally included in the study of leadership Capowski 1994 McLean Vickrey 1995 but is not typically viewed as a foundational element or as the central process from which leadership is a component and that is the primary contribution of this paper The objective of this dissertation is to empirically test this theoretical model The study looks at relationships supported by the leadership research related to transformational leadership emotional intelligence and follower outcomes It then incorporates interpersonal communication competence into existing models to establish its relative importance in the leadership process The critical premise is that leadership and emotion are considered unique aspects of communication In particular this study proposes that interpersonal communication competence is essential in the realization of effective leadership and in particular the transformational form of leadership with the interpretation management and expression of emotion as fundamental components Specifically communication was hypothesized to mediate the highly supported emotional intelligence transformational leadership relationship found in the literature and account for significant variance in follower performance and attitudes Results did not support the hypothesized mediation Surprisingly the negative finding was a result of the lack of support for the highly supported relationship between transformational leadership and emotional intelligence Ashkanasy Bass 2002 Barbuto Barling et al 2000 Gardner Sivanathan Fekken 2002 Without an established primary emotional intelligence and transformational leadership relationship the mediation test was not warranted Also interesting is that emotional intelligence did not show a significant relationship to interpersonal communication competence However interpersonal communication competence showed a strong positive relationship with transformational leadership and follower attitudes providing support for the importance of this construct The Communication Age Autumn Edwards, Chad Edwards, Shawn T. Wahl, Scott A. Myers, 2023-01-24 When should you send a text message and when is it more appropriate to talk face to face What is the best way to prepare for a job interview that will be conducted over video How should you modify your speech if it will be recorded and posted online The Communication Age Connecting and Engaging introduces students to the foundational concepts and essential skills of effective communication with a strong emphasis on the impact of technology in our increasingly interconnected world This new Fourth Edition helps students become involved in our diverse global community and learn how to apply key principles of effective communication whether incorporating media technology or traditional face to face speech communication to foster civic engagement for a better future With comprehensive coverage of the essentials of interpersonal small group and public communication this text is ideal for use in hybrid introduction to communication courses Interpersonal Communication Richard West,Lynn H.
