How to Make a Database in Historical Studies Tiago Luís Gil, 2021 This book is a greatly supplemented translation from Portuguese originally published in 2015 It discusses the most appropriate ways to create databases for research on history and other humanities including an extensive debate about the usages that historians have made of computing since the 1950s It has four chapters the first is dedicated to theoretical and methodical questions about the usage of databases in history the second is about technical issues the third presents the concept of research engineering how to improve research in groups the last is about the construction of databases The author states that the use of technology in research in history and humanities should be preceded and mediated by theories and methods which deal with these disciplines and not by technical issues The historian must know how to think correctly in order to use the technological tools in an autonomous way The book provides a background demonstrating how theory methodology and technique are always articulated in historical research and will appeal to history students and researchers

Nursing History Review, Volume 9, 2001 Diane Hamilton,Joan E. Lynaugh, RN, PhD, FAAN,2000-09-15 Long neglected the history of nursing has recently become the focus of a considerable amount of attention Over the past decade developments in the history of medicine the history of women particularly of women's work and nursing itself have resulted in a new recognition of the importance of the subject. The Review publishes significant scholarly work in all aspects of nursing history as well as reviews of recent books and updates on national and international activities in health care history. Under the distinguished editorship of Joan Lynaugh with the Editorial Review Board including such noted nurses as Ellen Baer, Susan Baird, Olga Maranjian, Church, Donna Diers, Marilyn Flood, Beatrice Kalisch, the Review provides historical articles, historiographic essays, discourse on the work of history, and multiple book reviews in each annual issue. Articles appearing in the Review are indexed, abstracted in CINAHL, Current Contents, Social Science Citation Index, Research Alert, RNdex Index Medicus, MEDLINE, Historical Abstracts, and America History and Life. History & Computing, 1996 Historical Social Research, 2004 Historical Studies in Information Science Trudi Bellardo Hahn, Michael Keeble, Buckland, 1998. McCrank, 1989 Guide to Sources in American Journalism History Lucy Shelton Caswell, 1989-08-23. This is an important book not only because it describes archival and manuscript collections in 40 states but because it is also the first of its kind devoted exclusively to journalism history. Entries are further subdivided by institution and special collection and include address, hours, and services. This source also contains seven authoritative essays on historical writing, research, databases, bibliographies, oral history, etc. Caswell has identified in painstaking detail a large number of collections and finally made them accessible to educators, historians, graduate students, and communications librarians. Highly recommended. Library Journal. The history of journalism is generally regarded as one of the least developed and most widely overlooked areas of mass communications scholarship and teaching. This comprehensive volume, undertaken under the aegis of the American Journalism Historians Association (AJHA), was developed to meet the needs for definitive information and resources in this area. It is the only work available which focuses specifically on manuscript sources relating to journalism history. The guide includes essays by authorities in the areas of historiography, bibliographic sources, databases relating to journalism history, U.S. Newspaper Program, and oral history. Historical sources documenting the news function of print and electronic media in the U.S. are listed along with specific information about collections in archival and manuscript repositories in 40 states. An extensive name index to special collections enables the researcher to link related materials held by different institutions.
