When a net force acts on an object, the object's motion will change. This means that the object's speed or direction will change. However, if the net force is zero, the object's motion will not change. This means that the object's speed and direction will remain the same. This is called Newton's first law of motion. Another way that forces can cause an object to change its motion is by changing its acceleration. Acceleration is the rate of change in velocity. If a net force acts on an object, it will accelerate. This means that the object's velocity will change. This is called Newton's second law of motion. Forces can also cause an object to change its motion by changing its direction. This is called Newton's third law of motion. For every action, there is an equal and opposite reaction. This means that if one object exerts a force on another object, the second object exerts an equal and opposite force on the first object.  Answer the questions that follow. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Which of the following is NOT a vector quantity? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Force Velocity Acceleration Displacement Which of the following is NOT a vector quantity? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Force Velocity Acceleration Displacement Which of the following is NOT a vector quantity? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Force Velocity Acceleration Displacement Which of the following is NOT a vector quantity? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Force Velocity Acceleration Displacement
