The Journal of Arizona History, 1985 Tucson David Devine, 2025-08-28 At the 250th anniversary of Tucson's official founding on August 20 1775 the city is now an environmentally attractive if economically poor major college town with a large military base onto which numerous rapidly growing suburban communities have been grafted Tracing Tucson's history since the 1854 Gadsden Purchase brought Southern Arizona into the United States this book's second edition contains significant updates and revisions including extensive coverage of the 2015-2024 period Tucson has a remarkable American history and this book describes many of its highs and lows including its longstanding ethnic diversity and racial divides the contentious battle that secured the University of Arizona for the community its important ceremonial traditions and social customs and the significant challenges it faces going forward Additionally recollections of many of those who have helped make Tucson such a memorable place are included along with a review of the major accomplishments and shortcomings that Tucson has experienced since 1854

Red Light Districts of Tucson David Grassé, 2026-02-18 Long after other parts of Arizona had outlawed prostitution in the late 19th and early 20th centuries Tucson maintained its red light districts Maiden Lane and Gay Alley However amid growing moral and religious backlash sex workers were severely marginalized Many women turned to sex work because of poverty abandonment or social scandal and were further stigmatized by prevailing racial and gender biases This book is the first comprehensive history of Tucson's red light districts and the women who worked in them Using a variety of primary sources including court documents police records census data and period newspapers the author examines the relationship between moral and political movements and the women of the red light districts themselves offering a uniquely thorough look at how Tucson's history reflects broader social and cultural dynamics of the American West at the turn of the 20th century

The Great Arizona Orphan Abduction Linda Gordon, 1999-11-19 In 1904 New York nuns brought forty Irish orphans to a remote Arizona mining camp to be placed with Catholic families The Catholic families were Mexican as was the majority of the population Soon the town's Anglos furious at this interracial transgression formed a vigilante squad that kidnapped the children and nearly lynched the nuns and the local priest The Catholic Church sued to get its wards back but all the courts including the U S Supreme Court ruled in favor of the vigilantes The Great Arizona Orphan Abduction tells this disturbing and dramatic tale to illuminate the creation of racial boundaries along the Mexican border Clifton Morenci Arizona was a wild West boomtown where the mines and smelters pulled in thousands of Mexican immigrant workers Racial walls hardened as the mines became big business and whiteness became a marker of superiority These already volatile race and class relations produced passions that erupted in the orphan incident To the Anglos of Clifton Morenci placing a white child with a Mexican family was tantamount to child abuse and they saw their kidnapping as a rescue Women initiated both sides of this confrontation Mexican women agreed to take in these orphans both serving their church and asserting a maternal prerogative Anglo women believed they had to save the orphans and they organized a vigilante squad to do it In retelling this nearly forgotten piece of American history Linda Gordon brilliantly recreates and dissects the tangled intersection of family and racial values in a gripping story that resonates with today s conflicts over the best interests of the child Memories
