Control Challenges Associated with Securing the Homeland National Research Council, Policy and Global Affairs, Development, Security, and Cooperation, Committee on Homeland Security and Export Controls, 2012-04-21 The homeland security mission of the Department of Homeland Security DHS is paradoxical Its mission space is uniquely focused on the domestic consequences of security threats but these threats may be international in origin organization and implementation The DHS is responsible for the domestic security implications of threats to the United States posed in part through the global networks of which the United States is a part While the security of the U S air transportation network could be increased if it were isolated from connections to the larger international network doing so would be a highly destructive step for the entire fabric of global commerce and the free movement of people Instead the U S government led by DHS is taking a leadership role in the process of protecting the global networks in which the United States participates These numerous networks are both real e g civil air transport international ocean shipping postal services international air freight and virtual the Internet international financial payments system and they have become vital elements of the U S economy and civil society Export Control Challenges Associated with Securing the Homeland found that outdated regulations are not uniquely responsible for the problems that export controls pose to DHS although they are certainly an integral part of the picture This report also explains that the source of these problems lies within a policy process that has yet to take into account the unique mission of DHS relative to export controls Export Control Challenges Associated with Securing the Homeland explains the need by the Department of Defense and State to recognize the international nature of DHS's vital statutory mission the need to further develop internal processes at DHS to meet export control requirements and implement export control policies as well as the need to reform the export control interagency process in ways that enable DHS to work through the U S export control process to cooperate with its foreign counterparts Export Controls: Challenges Exist in Enforcement of an Inherently Complex System, 2006 U.S. Aerospace Industry: Progress in Implementing Aerospace Commission Recommendations, & Remaining Challenges, 2006 China's African Challenges Sarah Raine, 2013-10-18

China's relations with African nations have changed dramatically over the past decade African oil now accounts for more than 30% of China's oil imports and China is Africa's second largest single country trading partner as well as a leading lender and infrastructure investor on the continent Yet these developments are bringing challenges not only for Africa and the West but for China as well This book examines these challenges considering Africa as a testing ground both for Chinese companies going global and for a Chinese government that is increasingly having to deal with issues beyond its shores and immediate control What does China need to do to protect and develop its African engagements against a backdrop of mounting African expectations concerns from Western actors in Africa and the rival presence of other emerging actors How sustainable is the momentum that China has established in its African ventures China s adaptations to the challenges it is facing in Africa are examined and assessed as are the implications of these changes for China Africa and the West China s African engagements are certainly changing Africa but could they also be changing China U.S. Arms Exports Paul L. established a board to advise the president on implementing a policy on conventional nonnuclear arms and technology transfer The board was to study the factors that contribute to the proliferation of strategic and advanced conventional military weapons and technology and the policy options the United States might use to inhibit such proliferation Shrinking federal budgets have made exports of all kinds including weapons an attractive means of shoring up a country s industrial base The heart of the problem is striking a balance between the preservation of military production and a healthy industrial base on the one hand and restraining exports that proliferate advanced weapons Foreign policy national security and economic interests that are served by the approval or denial of weapons sales can be compelling but often pull in different directions Striking the right balance among cross cutting priorities is the key to an effective weapons transfer policy This report discusses trends in the international arms markets how transfers of weapons and technology are controlled the economics of arms exports and the relationship between arms exports and a country s economy California. Twenty First Century: Challenges and Alternatives William Fujii, 2009-06-16 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2008 in the subject Politics Region Other States grade 72% First Class Honours University of Greenwich language English abstract This paper argues that because of the new reality of the twenty first century where the United States is beginning to decline China is rising and North Korea has acquired nuclear capabilities Japan may need to rethink its foreign and security policy which are deeply anchored on its alliance with Washington In the light of these new challenges this paper considers potential problems and constraints in Tokyo's current strategy and suggests it may not be in Japan's best interest to continue pursuing them Finally alternatives to Japan's security policy are considered and this paper concludes that no single alternative could replace the U S Japan alliance as an effective security policy in the foreseeable future Rather all the alternatives pursued together would potentially lead to an efficacious option consequently providing Japan's foreign policy with greater independence from the United States

Asia's Security Challenges Wilfried A. Herrmann, 1998 The Asia Pacific Region has changed from a region of permanent crisis to a major economic growth area of the world This is mainly based on the stability of the region despite some conflict potentials Consequently the influence of new challenges for national security is of great importance for the analysis of the future developments of this region Security is one of the crucial needs for the individual as well as the nation or state A comprehensive security approach is recognised by most of the Asian nation states but most of the regional organisations in Asia are lacking it Nevertheless the coming era of globalisation increasing interdependence closer communication networks and a growing ecology factor will show the need for closer co operation and more regionalisation in order to fulfil the requirements of the nation state towards its inhabitants The chapters contained in this volume provide an invaluable guide to a modified security approach in Asia which can be the first step of building a common Asian security thinking The covering of major security challenges as well as the regional security panoramas and the selected country profiles provide a crucial overview concerning this complex problem
