After God Mark C. Taylor, 2009-03 With fundamentalists dominating the headlines and scientists arguing about the biological and neurological basis of faith religion is the topic of the day But religion Mark C Taylor shows is more complicated than either its defenders or critics think and indeed is much more influential than any of us realize Our world Taylor maintains is shaped by religion even when it is least obvious Faith and value he insists are unavoidable and inextricably interrelated for believers and nonbelievers alike Using scientific theories of dynamical systems and complex adaptive networks for cultural and theological analysis After God redefines religion for our contemporary age Taylor begins by asking a critical question What is religion He then proceeds to explain how Protestant ideas in particular undergird the character and structure of our global information society the Reformation Taylor argues was an information and communications revolution that effectively prepared the way for the media revolution at the end of the twentieth century Taylor's breathtaking account of religious ideas allows us to understand for the first time that contemporary notions of atheism and the secular are already implicit in classical Christology and Trinitarian theology Weaving together theoretical analysis and historical interpretation Taylor demonstrates the codependence and coevolution of traditional religious beliefs and practices with modern literature art architecture information technologies media financial markets and theoretical biology After God concludes with prescriptions for new ways of thinking and acting If we are to negotiate the perils of the twenty first century

Taylor contends we must refigure the symbolic networks that inform our policies and guide our actions A religion without God creates the possibility of an ethics without absolutes that leads to the promotion of creativity and life in an ever more fragile world Publisher description The Reformed Church review Reformed episcopal Church of England, Journal of the Royal Society of Arts Royal Society of Arts (Great Britain),1908 Documents, Including Messages and Other Communications Ohio,1872 Journal of the Society of Arts ,1908 Kierkegaard on Art and Communication George Pattison,1992-12-09
