Coevolution Of Animals And Plants:

Coevolution of animals and plants Lawrence E. Gilbert, Peter H. Raven, 1975 Coevolution of Animals and Plants Lawrence E. Gilbert, Peter H. Raven, 1980-06 It has long been recognized that plants and animals profoundly affect one another's characteristics during the course of evolution. However, the importance of coevolution as a dynamic process involving such diverse factors as chemical communication, population structure and dynamics, energetics, and the evolution of structure and functioning of ecosystems has been widely recognized for a comparatively short time. Coevolution represents a point of view about the structure of nature that only began to be fully explored in the late twentieth century. The papers presented here herald its emergence as an important and promising field of biological research. Coevolution of Animals and Plants is the first book to focus on the dynamic aspects of animal-plant coevolution. It covers as broadly as possible all the ways in which plants interact with animals. Thus it includes discussions of leaf-feeding animals and their impact on plant evolution, as well as of predator-prey relationships involving the seeds of angiosperms. Several papers deal with the most familiar aspect of mutualistic plant-animal interactions: pollination relationships. The interactions of orchids and bees, ants and plants, and butterflies and plants are discussed. One article provides a fascinating example of more indirect relationships centered around the role of carotenoids, which are produced by plants but play a fundamental part in the visual systems of both plants and animals. Coevolution of Animals and Plants provides a general conceptual framework for studies on animal-plant interaction. The papers are written from a theoretical rather than a speculative standpoint, stressing patterns that can be applied in a broader sense to relationships within ecosystems. Contributors to the volume include Paul Feeny, Miriam Rothschild, Christopher Smith, Brian Hocking, Lawrence Gilbert, Calaway Dodson, Herbert Baker, Bernd Heinrich, Doyle McKey, and Gordon Frankie. Coevolution of Fungi with Plants and Animals K. A. Pirozynski, D. L. Hawksworth, 1988 The object of this volume is to draw attention to the wide range of associations between fungi and living organisms, particularly animals and plants, where there are indications that coevolution has been a major factor in their development. Beauty and the Beast Susan Grant, 1984 Coevolution of Animals and Plants Lawrence E. Gilbert, Peter H. Raven, 1975 Biochemical Aspects of Plant and Animal Coevolution Jeffrey B. Harborne, 1978 Effects of Resource Distribution on Animal-Plant Interactions Mark D. Hunter, Takayuki Ohgushi, Peter W. Price, 2012-12-02 Aimed primarily at advanced graduate students and professional biologists, this book explores the degree to which animal-plant interactions are determined by plant and animal variability. Many of the patterns seen in natural communities appear to result from cascading effects, up as well as down the trophic system. Variability among primary producers can influence animal and plant population quality and dynamics, community structure, and the evolution of animal-plant interactions. Biochemical Aspects of Plant and Animal Coevolution, 1977 Coevolution Douglas J. Interactions between plants and animals are incredibly diverse and complex and span terrestrial atmospheric and aquatic environments The last decade has seen the emergence of a vast quantity of data on the subject and there is now a perceived need among both teachers and undergraduate students for a new textbook that incorporates the numerous recent advances made in the field The book is intended for use by advanced level undergraduate and beginning graduate students taking related courses in wider ecology degree programmes Very few books cover this subject and those that do are out of date

Human Evolution beyond Biology and Culture Jeroen C. J. M. van den Bergh, 2018-10-18 Both natural and cultural selection played an important role in shaping human evolution Since cultural change can itself be regarded as evolutionary a process of gene culture coevolution is operative The study of human evolution in past present and future is therefore not restricted to biology An inclusive comprehension of human evolution relies on integrating insights about cultural economic and technological evolution with relevant elements of evolutionary biology In addition proximate causes and effects of cultures need to be added to the picture issues which are at the forefront of social sciences like anthropology economics geography and innovation studies This book highlights discussions on the many topics to which such generalised evolutionary thought has been applied the arts the brain climate change cooking criminality environmental problems futurism gender issues group processes humour industrial dynamics institutions languages medicine music psychology public policy religion sex sociality and sports A Neotropical Companion John C.
