Cognitive Processes In Comprehension:

   Cognitive Processes in Comprehension Marcel A. Just,Patricia A. Carpenter,2013-11-26 First published in 1978 Cognitive Processes in Comprehension is a look at what goes on in the mind of the listener or reader when he hears a sentence during a conversation or reads a passage in a book For most adults comprehension is rapid automatic and effortless But despite its apparent simplicity comprehension includes a myriad of subprocesses each of which by itself constitutes a formidable computational task   Cognitive Processes in Reading Comprehension Neff Walker,1983   Final Report ,1982   Cognitive Processes of Reading Comprehension Kathleen Marie Kasprzak,1979   Cognitive Processes in Comprehension Contributions Marcel Adam Just,Patricia A. Carpenter,1977   Neuropsychological and Cognitive Processes in Reading Francis J. Pirozzolo,Merlin C. Wittrock,2013-10-22 Neuropsychological and Cognitive Processes in Reading explores reading and reading disabilities within the context of cognitive psychology and neuropsychology Emphasis is on the roles of brain mechanisms in reading and reading disturbances In the areas of perception and cognition theoretical models of the reading process are used to highlight the various psychological processes involved in the act of skilled reading Comprised of 12 chapters this volume begins with an introduction to the fundamental processes of reading giving particular attention to a psychological theory that builds on two concepts that the basic processes of reading are few in number and that they are separable from one another A useful and testable information processing model of reading that consists of three separable fundamental processes decoding word meaning and sentence comprehension is described Subsequent chapters deal with some of the external and internal factors involved in reading a model of disorders of reading comprehension the alexias the neuropsychological test performance of brain damaged and non brain damaged dyslexic children and the problem of subtypes of learning disability Eye movements and perceptual spans in reading are also discussed along with reading comprehension and the problem of agrammatism The final chapter analyzes the factors that influence recovery from alexia This book will be of interest to neuropsychologists and those engaged in neurolinguistics psycholinguistics cognitive psychology and educational psychology   Sentence Comprehension as a Cognitive Process Shravan Vasishth,Felix Engelmann,2021-11-11 Sentence comprehension the way we process and understand spoken and written language is a central and important area of research within psycholinguistics This book explores the contribution of computational linguistics to the field showing how computational models of sentence processing can help scientists in their investigation of human cognitive processes It presents the leading computational model of retrieval processes in sentence processing the Lewis and Vasishth cue based retrieval mode and develops a principled methodology for parameter estimation and model comparison evaluation using benchmark data to enable researchers to test their own models of retrieval against the present model It also provides readers with an overview of the last 20 years of research on the topic of retrieval processes in sentence comprehension along with source code that allows researchers to extend the model and carry out new research

Comprehensive in its scope this book is essential reading for researchers in cognitive science The Cognitive Development of Reading and Reading Comprehension Carol McDonald Connor,2016-02-26 Learning to read may be the most complex cognitive operation that children are expected to master and the latest research in cognitive development has offered important insights into how children succeed or fail at this task The Cognitive Development of Reading and Reading Comprehension is a multidisciplinary evidence based resource for teachers and researchers that examines reading comprehension from a cognitive development perspective including the principal theories and methods used in the discipline The book combines research into basic cognitive processes genetics perception memory executive functioning and language with an investigation of the effects that context and environment have on literacy outcomes making clear how factors such as health family life community policy and ecology can influence children s cognitive development Comprehension Processes in Reading David A. Balota,G.B. Flores d'Arcais,Keith Rayner,2012-11-12 Comprehension Processes in Reading addresses the interrelationship among several areas relevant to understanding how people comprehend text The contributors focus on the on line processes associated with text understanding rather than simply with the product of that comprehension what people remember from reading Presenting the latest theories and research findings from a distinguished group of contributors Comprehension Processes in Reading is divided into four major sections Each section concluding with a commentary chapter discusses a different aspect of reader understanding or dysfunction such as individual word comprehension sentence parsing text comprehension and comprehension failures and dyslexia An investigation of the cognitive processes involved in the reading comprehension of children Vicky Lynn Miller,1980 Language Comprehension As Structure Building Morton Ann Gernsbacher,2013-09-05 This book presents a new theoretical framework what Gernsbacher calls the Structure Building Framework for understanding language comprehension in particular and cognitive processing in general According to this framework the goal in comprehending both linguistic and nonlinguistic materials is to build a coherent mental representation or structure of the information being comprehended As such the underlying processes and mechanisms of structure building are viewed as general cognitive processes and mechanisms The strength of the volume lies in its empirical detail a thorough literature review and solid original data Basic Processes in Reading David LaBerge,S. Jay Samuels,2017-03-27 Originally published in 1977 this volume contains the most recent theoretical views and experimental findings by prominent psychologists at the time working in areas they considered to be most basic to the reading processes The material will still be of value to people interested in applied and basic aspects of reading as well as those concerned with language processing and information processing in general The volume divides conveniently into two areas perception and comprehension The initial chapters deal with the perceptual processes involved in reading The second half of the volume delves into the area of comprehension The interested reader will find a wide variety of topics covered in the volume that reflect the amazingly wide range of cognitive functions that are part of the reading process Metacognition and Reading Comprehension Ruth Garner,1987 Developmental psychologists have been interested in metacognitive phenomena since the early 1970s while reading researchers have been interested in awareness monitoring and strategy use for text processing as part of a shift in focus from text factors to reader factors in reading A great many research studies have been conducted by psychologists and reading researchers under the rubric of metacognition Unlike other chapters fom some edited books which present only syntheses of this burgeoning research literature this volume not only presents the literature but provides analysis about its usefulness for researchers and practitioners It also presents a discussion of important methodological dilemmas within these research literatures
