H. Young,2024-01-02T00:00:00Z This is a story of two middle class families living in adjoining houses in a West of England town In one house lives a priggish individual his seemingly submissive wife and their three daughters who share in a varied degree the characteristics of their parents a repressed unhappy household which hears little laughter The other household includes a woman and her five children and here everything is bright and gay The story traces their interactions during the uneasy interlude preceding and following the Munich period just before the outbreak of the Second World War Bristol & Clifton street directory ,1870 Domestic Modernism, the Interwar Novel, and E.H. Young Chiara Briganti,Kathy Mezei,2016-12-05 Domestic Modernism the Interwar Novel and E H Young provides a valuable analytical model for reading a large body of modernist works by women who have suffered not only from a lack of critical attention but from the assumption that experimental modernist techniques are the only expression of the modern In the process of documenting the publication and reception history of E H Young s novels the authors suggest a paradigm for analyzing the situation of women writers during the interwar years Their discussion of Young in the context of both canonical and noncanonical writers challenges the generic label and literary status of the domestic novel as well as facile assumptions about popular and middlebrow fiction canon formation aesthetic value and modernity The authors also make a significant contribution to discussions of the everyday and to the burgeoning field of homeculture as they show that the fictional embodiment and inscription of home by writers such as Young Virginia Woolf Elizabeth Bowen Ivy Compton Burnett Lettice Cooper E M Delafield Stella Gibbons Storm Jameson and E Arnot Robertson epitomize the long standing symbiosis between architecture and literature or more specifically between the house and the novel
