Chatterton Square Emily Hilda Young,1987      Domestic Modernism, the Interwar Novel, and E.H. Young Chiara Briganti,Kathy Mezei,2016-12-05 Domestic Modernism the Interwar Novel and E H Young provides a valuable analytical model for reading a large body of modernist works by women who have suffered not only from a lack of critical attention but from the assumption that experimental modernist techniques are the only expression of the modern In the process of documenting the publication and reception history of E H Young s novels the authors suggest a paradigm for analyzing the situation of women writers during the interwar years Their discussion of Young in the context of both canonical and noncanonical writers challenges the generic label and literary status of the domestic novel as well as facile assumptions about popular and middlebrow fiction canon formation aesthetic value and modernity The authors also make a significant contribution to discussions of the everyday and to the burgeoning field of homeculture as they show that the fictional embodiment and inscription of home by writers such as Young Virginia Woolf Elizabeth Bowen Ivy Compton Burnett Lettice Cooper E M Delafield Stella Gibbons Storm Jameson and E Arnot Robertson epitomize the long standing symbiosis between architecture and literature or more specifically between the house and the novel      Womanspeak ,1986      Challenging Modernism Stella Deen,2002 Treating the connections between literature and its cultural and material contexts Challenging Modernism concentrates on English and American responses to the interwar European terrain In a range of essays the contributors examine twentieth century writers deployment of contemporary political imperialist and nationalist discourses to define Self and Other along new lines they probe writers engagement with such issues as sexual reproduction and the fate of workers on the British World War II home front Setting both canonical works of literature and previously overlooked texts in freshly examined cultural and historical contexts they revisit modernism to expose new facets of its political cultural and sexual struggles BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved

Janeites Deidre Lynch,2000-09-17 This study explores the phenomenon of the Janeite The zealous reader and fan of Jane Austen whose devotion to her novels has been frequently invoked and often derided by the critical establishment The text asks what Janeites do and explores the myriad appropriations of Austen      The British Library General Catalogue of Printed Books, 1986 to 1987 British Library,1988      British Book News British Council,1987 Includes no 53a British wartime books for young people      Books in Print ,1977      Chatterton Square E. H. Young,2024-01-02T00:00:00Z This is a story of two middle class families living in adjoining houses in a West of England town In one house lives a priggish individual his seemingly submissive wife and their three daughters who share in a varied degree the characteristics of their parents a repressed unhappy household which hears little laughter The other household includes a woman and her five children and here everything is bright and gay The story traces their interactions during the uneasy interlude preceding and following the Munich period just before the outbreak of the Second World War      Miss Mole E.H. YOUNG,2020-08-03 Who would suspect her of a sense of fun and irony of a passionate love for beauty and the power to drag it from its hidden places Who could imagine that Miss Mole had pictured herself at different times as an explorer in strange lands as a lady wrapped in luxury and delicate garments as the mother of adorably naughty children and the inspiringly elusive mistress of a poet Hannah Mole is a forty ish spinster haunted by her past and drifting from post to post now a governess now a companion for elderly women She rarely lingers long due to a slightly troubled relationship with the truth a tendency to speak her mind and a fundamental mistrust of others But Hannah s darker instincts are tempered by a stubborn self respect and a surprising ability to find joy and inspiration in ordinary life When she returns to her home town of Radstowe and takes an unpromising job in the home of the stuffy widowed Reverend Corder and his daughters she finds a situation in which her unique characteristics are not only appreciated but essential In Miss Mole winner of the James Tait Black Memorial Prize in 1930 E H Young created her most complex unlikely yet imminently lovable heroine in a tale packed with rich characters brilliant humour and quiet triumph
