When multiple forces act on an object, they combine to determine the net force, which determines whether the object speeds up, slows down, or changes direction. Understanding how forces act together is essential to explaining everyday observations, from a ball being kicked to a rocket launching into space. Newton's second law of motion states that the acceleration of an object is directly proportional to the net force acting on it and inversely proportional to its mass. This means that if the net force increases, the acceleration increases proportionally, but if the mass also increases, the acceleration will decrease. For example, pushing a heavy box with a small force will result in a small acceleration, while pushing a lighter box with the same force will result in a larger acceleration. Friction is a force that opposes motion between two surfaces in contact. It acts in the opposite direction of the motion and is caused by the roughness of the surfaces and the forces between the molecules of the surfaces. Friction is essential for many everyday activities, such as walking, driving, and holding objects. Without friction, objects would slide across surfaces and it would be impossible to walk or drive.  Answer the questions that follow. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> What does Newton's second law of motion state? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Acceleration is directly proportional to net force and inversely proportional to mass.
