Antony Fisher Champion Of Liberty:

Antony Fisher Gerald Frost,2002 Antony Fisher s achievements throughout a varied and fascinating life were extraordinary A successful entrepreneur from his twenties and a decorated Battle of Britain fighter pilot in World War II he later introduced chicken factory farming to the UK his second wife said Antony did more to put a chicken in every man s pot than any king or politician and made a fortune in the process But it was Fisher s concern with the liberty of the individual crystallised by a meeting with the free market thinker Friedrich Hayek author of The Road to Serfdom that redirected his life As a result Fisher poured his wealth into establishing the Institute of Economic Affairs an independent economic think tank that later had enormous influence on public policy and the views of leading politicians notably Margaret Thatcher By the time Fisher died in 1988 having lost his fortune in a turtle farming venture and only four weeks after being knighted the IEA and its spin offs around the world had played a crucial role in changing the direction of post war politics forever Power, Policy and Profit Christina Garsten,Adrienne Sörbom,2017-10-27 Power Policy and Profit investigates the manifold ways in which corporate actors attempt to broadly influence political activities With intensified globalization of markets the restructuring of provisions of welfare services and accumulation of private capital opportunities for corporate influence in politics affairs have multiplied Bringing together scholars from different fields in the study of global governance the volume addresses the rising influence and power of corporate actors on the national and transnational political scene We Must Begin with the Land Stephen Hunt,2025-04-29 We live at a time of intractable armed conflicts starved of resolution We inhabit a planet where damaged ecosystems are hungry for restoration We endure chronic inequalities of wealth and power which crave redistribution During the past decade such intertwined factors have precipitated a food crisis in which increasingly millions experience malnutrition As elsewhere the UK is constrained by legacies of structural injustice and failing neoliberal policies Yet We Must Begin with the Land is not another account of global doom It explores an abundance of innovative and traditional alternatives for producing food renewable energies and organic materials through agroecology Using the anti colonial lens of social ecology Stephen E Hunt considers mini real world case studies for diversifying and democratising how we might grow share and eat Gleaning such examples takes us from La Via Campesina the world s largest food sovereignty network to efforts to preserve Indigenous knowledges from radical material sciences using hemp seaweed and fungi to the defiant trees and fruits of revolutionary Rojava from proliferating Kleing rten to micro projects at home such as an inner city growing community where refugees sprout hope and Japanese Shumei cultivation unexpectedly thriving in a Wiltshire hamlet Social ecology is a powerful set of conceptual principles for transforming our relationship to food It offers a critique of existing supply chains that all too often shackle producers and consumers alike in dependency and poverty But it also sparks different conversations about how we might delink from and reconnect into food chains that are more intricate and ultimately more resilient It signals priorities not just to meet social needs and for ecological survival but also for human liberation and
