and Things J. G. Zimmerman, 2017-03-09 Aphorisms and Reflections from the Works of Thomas Henry Huxley Thomas Henry Huxley, 1907-01-01 Although a man by his works and personality shall have made his mark upon the age he lives in yet when he has passed away and his influence with him the next generation and still more the succeeding one will know little of this work of his ideals and of the goal he strove to win although for the student his scientific work may always live Thomas Henry Huxley may come to be remembered by the public merely as the man who held that we were descended from the ape or as the apostle of Darwinism or as the man who worsted Bishop Wilberforce at Oxford To prevent such limitation and to afford more intimate and valuable reasons for remembrance of this man of science and lover of his fellow men I have gathered together passages on widely differing themes from the nine volumes of his Essays from his Scientific Memoirs and his Letters to be published in a small volume complete in itself and of a size that can be carried in the pocket Some of the passages were picked out for their philosophy some for their moral guidances some for their scientific exposition of natural facts or for their insight into social questions others for their charms of imagination or genial humour and many not the least for their pure beauty of lucid English writing In so much wealth of material it was difficult to restrict the gathering My great wish is that this small book by the easy method of its contents may attract the attention of those persons who are yet unacquainted with my husband's writings of the men and women of leisure who although they may have heard of the Essays do not care to work their way through the nine volumes of others who would like to read them but who have either no time to do so or coin wherewith to buy them More especially do I hope that these selections may attract the attention of the working man whose cause my husband so ardently espoused and to whom he was the first to reveal by his free lectures the loveliness of Nature the many rainbow coloured rays of science and to show forth to his listeners how all these glorious rays unite in the one pure white light of holy truth

Aphorisms and Reflections J. L. Spalding, 2017-09-12 Excerpt from Aphorisms and Reflections Conduct Culture and Religion Proverbs are the wheat which remains after a whole world of talk and writing has sifted through innumerable minds They are the fine essence of literature true embodiments of the experience of life and they most abound in the most vital books They are the form of speech all the great teachers have loved the mould in which the people have most gladly received and most abidingly held the great moral truths Mothers tell them to their children poets put them in the mouths of their heroes and the devil may quote them for his purpose The test of a thought is that it contain its worth and meaning apart from the context About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
