Weaponizing Maps Joe Bryan, Denis Wood, 2015-03-11 Maps play an indispensable role in indigenous peoples' efforts to secure land rights in the Americas and beyond. Yet indigenous peoples did not invent participatory mapping techniques on their own; they appropriated them from techniques developed for colonial rule and counterinsurgency campaigns and refined by anthropologists and geographers. Through a series of historical and contemporary examples from Nicaragua, Canada, and Mexico, this book explores the tension between military applications of participatory mapping and its use for political mobilization and advocacy. The authors analyze the emergence of indigenous territories as spaces defined by a collective way of life and as a particular kind of battleground.

Dr. Calhoun's Mousery Lee Alan Dugatkin, 2024-10-03 A bizarre and compelling biography of a scientist and his work using rodent cities to question the potential catastrophes of human overpopulation. It was the strangest of experiments: what began as a utopian environment where mice had sumptuous accommodations, had all the food and water they could want, and were free from disease and predators, turned into a mouse hell. Science writer and animal behaviorist Lee Alan Dugatkin introduces readers to the peculiar work of rodent researcher John Bumpass Calhoun. In this enthralling tale, Dugatkin shows how an ecologist turned psychologist turned futurist became a science rock star embedded in the culture of the 1960s and 1970s. As interest grew in his rodent cities, Calhoun was courted by city planners, and his work was reflected in everything from Tom Wolfe's hard-hitting writing to the children's book Mrs. Frisby and the Rats of NIMH. He was invited to meetings with the Royal Society and the pope and taken seriously when he proposed a worldwide cybernetic brain a decade before others made the internet a reality. Readers see how Calhoun's experiments, rodent apartment complexes like Mouse Universe 25, led to his concept of behavioral sinks with real effects on public policy discussions. Overpopulation in Calhoun's mouse and rat complexes led to the loss of sex drive, the absence of maternal care, and a class of automatons that included the beautiful ones who spent their time grooming themselves while shunning socialization. Calhoun and those who followed his work saw the collapse of this mouse population as a harbinger of the ill effects of an overpopulated human world. Drawing on previously unpublished archival research and interviews with Calhoun's family and former colleagues, Dugatkin offers a riveting account of an intriguing scientific figure. Considering Dr. Calhoun's experiments, he explores the changing nature of scientific research and delves into what the study of animal behavior can teach us about ourselves.

Neoliberalism on the Ground Kenny Cupers, Helena Mattsson, Catharina Gabrielsson, 2020-02-25 Architecture and urbanism have contributed to one of the most sweeping transformations of our times. Over the past four decades, neoliberalism has been not only a dominant paradigm in politics but a process of bricks and mortar in everyday life. Rather than to ask what a neoliberal architecture looks like or how architecture represents neoliberalism, this volume examines the multivalent role of architecture and urbanism in geographically variable yet interconnected processes of neoliberal transformation across scales from China Turkey South Africa Argentina Mexico the United States Britain Sweden and Czechoslovakia Analyzing how buildings and urban projects in different regions since the 1960s have served in the implementation of concrete policies such as privatization fiscal reform deregulation state restructuring and the expansion of free trade contributors reveal neoliberalism as a process marked by historical contingency Neoliberalism on the Ground fundamentally reframes accepted narratives of both neoliberalism and postmodernism by demonstrating how architecture has articulated changing relationships between state society and economy since the 1960s

The Mastery of Submission John Kenneth Noyes,1997 Noyes documents the evolution of the concept of masochism with scenes in literature from John Cleland s Fanny Hill through Sacher Masoch s Venus in Furs and Pauline Reage s Story of O
