Contes Fantastiques Complets:

Contes fantastiques complets Guy de Maupassant, Anne Richter, 2003      Contes fantastiques complets Guy de Maupassant, 1983      Magical Realism and the Fantastic Amaryll Beatrice Chanady, 2019-10-01 Every reader of literature interprets the literary text on the basis of information they have acquired from previous reading and according to norms they have established either consciously or not with regard to a work of literature In this study originally published in 1985 the author clarifies the concepts of magical realism and the fantastic and establishes a series of guidelines that will allow us to distinguish between the two similar yet independent modes The reader will thus be able to identify the implicit framework upon which the author of the fantastic and of magical realism bases their text      Contes fantastiques complets Erckmann-Chatrian, 1987      Contes fantastiques complets Ernst Theodor Amadeus Hoffmann, 1964      The Feminine as Fantastic in the Conte Fantastique Amy J. Ransom, 1995 The fantastic genre holds a privileged position in literary and feminist studies because of its open exploration of the limits of mimetic creation and its attempts to represent alterity both feminine and supernatural This study traces its development as a product of the dramatically changing cultural context of nineteenth century France Examining post revolutionary concerns about questions of gender and identity this work observes the increasingly disruptive force of the feminine fantastic upon the masculine subject author as symptomatic of a crisis underlying dominant attitudes toward material progress which culminated in the death of the representational in the early twentieth century      Saint Hysteria Cristina Mazzoni, 1996 Saint Hysteria examines scientific literary and religious texts that share a fascination with the otherness of the female body whether in ecstatic pleasure or in neurotic pain Cristina Mazzoni focuses on material from the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries mainly in Italy and France Her approach uses the methodologies of cultural studies and feminism but also benefits from the insights of psychoanalytic criticism She asks how the identification of mysticism with hysteria became prevalent and explores the continuing dialogue between a historicizing view of hysteria and a view of hysteria as repressed religious mysticism According to Mazzoni this dialogue is discernible at various levels and in a variety of discourses The medical history of hysteria she maintains is often linked to the religious history of supernatural phenomena and the medical discourse of positivism depends on the religious feminine element that it attempts to repress Similarly she finds a continuity between the literature of naturalism and that of decadence in their representations of the interdependence of neurosis and religion Finally the religious writings of women mystics and the discourses they inspired reveal an unresolved tension between nature and supernature body and soul or psyche which Mazzoni suggests mirrors and complicates the very issues raised by hysterical conversion Among those whose views she considers are the writers Jules and Edmond de Goncourt Gabriele d Annunzio and Antonio Fogazzaro as well as Graham Greene and Simone Weil the mystics Angela of Foligno Gemma Galgani and Teresa of Avila and the theorists Jean Martin Charcot Cesare Lombroso Jacques Lacan Simone de Beauvoir Julia Kristeva and Luce Irigaray      Guy de

Death and Afterlife in Modern France Thomas A. Kselman, 2014-07-14
Although today in France church attendance is minimal when death occurs many families still cling to religious rites. In exploring this common reaction to one of the most painful aspects of existence Thomas Kselman turns to nineteenth century French beliefs about death and the afterlife not only to show how deeply rooted the cult of the dead is in one Western society but how death and the behavior of mourners have been politicized in the modern world. Drawing on sermons preached in rural and urban parishes, folktales, and accounts of seances the author vividly re-creates the social and cultural context in which most French people responded to death and dealt with anxieties about the self and its survival. Inspired mainly by Catholicism, beliefs about death provided a social basis for moral order throughout the nineteenth century and were vulnerable to manipulation by public officials and clergy. Kselman shows however that by mid-century the increase in urbanization, capitalism, family privacy, and expressed religious differences generated diverse attitudes toward death causing funerals to evolve from Catholic neighborhood rituals into personalized symbolic events for Catholics and dissenters alike. The civil burial of Victor Hugo being perhaps the greatest symbol of rebellion. Kselman's discussion of the growth of commercial funerals and innovations in cemetery administration illuminates a new struggle for control over funeral arrangements this time involving businessmen, politicians, families, and clergy. This struggle in turn demonstrates the importance of these events for defining social identity. Originally published in 1993. The
