

A circular mirror is mounted on a wall, reflecting a hallway. In the center of the mirror's reflection, a yellow sticky note is affixed to a light-colored wall. The note has the words "Self As Context" written on it in a black, handwritten-style font. To the left of the yellow note, a smaller, bright pink sticky note is also visible on the wall. The background of the reflection shows a hallway with a doorway on the right and a light fixture hanging from the ceiling. The overall scene is softly lit, with a warm, indoor atmosphere.

Steffen, 1986 Self Deception and the Common Life investigates the topic of self deception from three points of view philosophical psychology ethics and theology Empirical evidence and an ordinary language analysis support the case that the linguistic expression self deception is literally meaningful and that the language of the common life can be trusted After critically analyzing the cognition translation and action accounts along with the contributions of Freud and Sartre Steffen proposes a new synthetic emotional perception account one that avoids paradox Giving attention to relevant moral issues he argues that self deception is not immoral but represents a peculiar form of akrasia Finally because theologians employ self deception to describe the cognitive component of sin Steffen considers the logic of theological self deception His study seeks an intimate acquaintance with self deception and exemplifies a method of analysis relevant to constructive theological inquiry California.
