Contexts Of Ageing Class Cohort And Community:

Contexts of Ageing Chris Gilleard, Paul Higgs, 2005-09-02 Drawing on a wide range of sources this text analyses the social nature of later life in the context of the history of welfare states the emergence of consumer society and across the lifecourse

Working-Class Community in the Age of Affluence Stefan Ramsden, 2017-02-24 It has appeared to many commentators that the most fundamental change in what it is meant to be working class in twentieth century Britain came not as a result of war or of want but of prosperity Social investigators documented how the relative affluence of the 1950s and 1960s improved the material conditions of life for working class Britons whilst eroding their commitment to the shared life of traditional communities Utilising an oral history case study of sociability and identity in the Yorkshire town of Beverley between the end of the Second World War and the election of Margaret Thatcher's government Working Class Community in the Age of Affluence challenges this influential narrative An introductory essay outlines how sociologists and historians understood the complex social cultural and economic changes of the post war decades through the prism of affluence and traces how these changes came to be seen as deleterious to the traditional working class community The book then proceeds thematically exploring change across areas of social life including family neighbourhood workplace and associational life This book represents the first sustained historical analysis of change and continuity in working class community living during the age of affluence It suggests not only that older social practices persisted but also that new patterns of sociability could strengthen as much as undermine community Ultimately Working Class Community in the Age of Affluence asks us to rethink assumptions about the decline of local solidarities in this pivotal period and to recognise community as a key feature of working class life across the twentieth century

Ageing in a consumer society Ian Rees Jones, Martin Hyde, Christina R. Victor, Richard D. Wiggins, Chris Gilleard, Paul Higgs, 2008-09-01 Targeted as the grey consumer people retiring now participated in the creation of the post war consumer culture These consumers have grown older but have not stopped consuming Based on extensive analysis over two years this unique book examines the engagement of older people with consumer society in Britain since the 1960s It charts the changes in the experience of later life in the UK over the last 50 years the rise of the individualised consumer citizen and what this means for health and social policies The book will appeal to students lecturers researchers and policy analysts It will provide material for teaching on undergraduate courses and postgraduate courses in sociology social policy and social gerontology It will also have considerable appeal to private industry engaged with older consumers as well as to voluntary and non governmental organisations addressing ageing in Britain
