Contours Of Psychiatric Justice:

The Contours of Psychiatric Justice Bruce A. Arrigo, 1996 Twenty nine collected essays represent a critical history of Shakespeare's play as text and as theater beginning with Samuel Johnson in 1765 and ending with a review of the Royal Shakespeare Company production in 1991 The criticism centers on three aspects of the play the love friendship debate

The French Connection in Criminology Bruce A. Arrigo, Dragan Milovanovic, Robert Carl Schehr, 2012-02-01 Winner of the 2005 Outstanding Book Award presented by the Crime and Juvenile Delinquency Division of the Society for the Study of Social Problems This is the first comprehensive accessible and integrative overview of postmodernism's contribution to law criminology and social justice The book begins by reviewing the major contributions of eleven prominent figures responsible for the development of French postmodern social theory This first wave includes Roland Barthes Jean Baudrillard Hélène Cixous Gilles Deleuze Jacques Derrida Michel Foucault Félix Guattari Luce Irigaray Julia Kristeva Jacques Lacan and Jean-François Lyotard Their respective insights are then linked to second wave scholars who have appropriated their conceptualizations and applied them to pressing issues in law crime and social justice research Compelling and concrete examples are provided for how affirmative and integrative postmodern inquiry can function meaningfully in the world of criminal justice Topics explored include confinement law and prison resistance critical race theory and a jurisprudence of color media literary studies and feminism restorative justice and victim/offender mediation processes and the emergence of social movements including innocence projects and intentional communities

Psychological Jurisprudence Bruce A. Arrigo, 2012-02-01 Psychological jurisprudence or the use of psychology in the legal realm relies on theories and methods of criminal justice and mental health to make decisions about intervention policy and programming While the intentions behind the law psychology field are humane the results often are not This book provides a radical agenda for psychological jurisprudence one that relies on the insights of literary criticism psychoanalysis feminist theory political economy analysis postmodernism and related strains of critical thought Contributors reveal the roots of psycholegal logic and demonstrate how citizen justice and structural reform are displaced by so-called science and facts A number of complex issues in the law psychology field are addressed including forensic mental health decision making parricide competency to stand trial adolescent identity development penal punitiveness and offender rehabilitation In exploring how the current resolution to these and related controversies fail to promote the dignity or empowerment of persons with mental illness this book suggests how the law psychology field can meaningfully contribute to advancing the goals of justice and humanism in psycholegal theory research and policy

Forensic Psychology Reconsidered David Polizzi, Matthew Draper, 2015-10-30 Forensic psychology is where psychology meets the criminal justice system An understanding of the intersection of criminal law and psychological issues relating to criminal responsibility is critical for criminal justice students This accessible text focuses on the criminal law implications of forensic psychology as it relates to topics such as competency to stand trial state of mind at the time of the crime suicide by cop and involuntary psychiatric medication administered in custody Unlike more traditional texts on this topic which are primarily concerned with the clinical practice of forensic psychology this book focuses on critical thinking as it relates to these topics Each chapter presents a critical analysis of the topic under study going beyond merely identifying the legal parameters of criminal responsibility to explore the ethical philosophical and theoretical foundations of that concept

The Eyes of Justice Roberta Kevelson, 1994 The general topic of this book miscarried justice is suggested by the title's allusion to the sightlessness of the proverbial representation of justice Viewpoints from several academic disciplines e.g. philosophy sociology linguistics criminal justice literary criticism and religious studies are brought together with theories of law This collection is not only interdisciplinary but cross cultural as well The common language is legal semiotics in both a Peircean and non Peircean idiolect This collection is a rich cross referential research tool for investigators of law and semiotics in all its aspects

Competency to be Tried, Imprisoned, and Executed Jane Moriarty, 2013-12-19 Whether the accused is competent to stand trial whether the plaintiff is competent to accuse or whether a witness is competent to testify has had a long legal history Such questions draw legal reasoning into areas of ethical reflection and scientific debate deeply rooted in the moral history of the United States Mental competence has come to play a central and controversial role in proving guilt and in evaluating the severity of a crime and its corresponding punishment This compendium brings together the major legal precedents and legal commentaries that have defined the role of mental illness in criminal trials throughout U.S. history The reprint collection considers among other issues the evolution of the Supreme Court's position on the insanity defense and mental retardation how these affect one's competency to stand trial or be executed and how these affect culpability and punishment Each volume begins with an introductory essay and includes both cases and commentary Scholars as well as students will find these volumes a useful research tool

Social Justice, 1999

Critical Inquiries for Social Justice in Mental Health Marina Morrow, Lorraine Halinka Malcoe, 2017-01-01 An exceptional showcase of interdisciplinary research Critical Inquiries for Social Justice in Mental Health presents various critical theories methodologies and methods for transforming mental health research and fostering socially just mental health practices Marina Morrow and Lorraine Halinka Malcoe have assembled an array of international scholars activists and practitioners whose work exposes and disrupts the dominant neoliberal and individualist practices found in contemporary mental research policy and practice The contributors employ a variety of methodologies including intersectional decolonizing indigenous feminist post structural transgender queer and critical realist approaches in order to interrogate the manifestation of power relations in mental health systems and its impact on people with mental distress Additionally the contributors enable the reader to reimagine systems and supports designed from the bottom up in which the people most affected have decision making authority over their formations Critical Inquiries for Social Justice in Mental Health demonstrates why and how theory matters for knowledge production policy and practice in mental health and it creates new imaginings of decolonized and democratized mental health systems of abundant community centred supports and of a world where human differences are affirmed Administrative Psychiatric Justice Debra Lynne Martin,1986 The Myth of a Psychiatric Crime Wave Corey J. Vitello, Eric W. Hickey,2006 The media is full of disturbing scenes of deranged psychotic killers lurking around every corner waiting to attack when innocent victims least expect Despite the unrealistic nature of these scenes the ensuing fear results in very real often shortsighted attempts at protecting the public from the perceived danger that mentally ill persons in our communities represent The Myth of a Psychiatric Crime Wave provides a practical foundation for studying popular attitudes toward mental illness and the effects these notions have on mental health consumers Additionally the text provides a comprehensive analysis of the underlying assumptions about mental illness that unintentionally or otherwise influence legal and policy decisions affecting persons with mental illnesses This book begins with an exploration of the various psychological and legal efforts to define the concept of mental illness The text then examines the myth of a psychiatric crime wave the common belief that mentally ill persons are violent and dangerous and as such are managed effectively through criminal justice procedures The criminal image of persons with mental illness is addressed then leads the reader to an empirical analysis of mock juror sentencing recommendations for mentally ill defendants The Myth of a Psychiatric Crime Wave is an effective complementary text for upper level psychology and criminal justice courses dealing with the treatment of mental health consumers the management of these individuals or both Moreover this text is suited for sparking critical discourse in graduate level courses in forensic psychology criminology and mental health law This book is part of the Criminal Justice and Psychology series Seattle University Law Review ,2000

Criminal Competency on Trial Mark C. Bardwell, Bruce A. Arrigo,2002 Criminal Competency on Trial examines the legal standards by which one can stand trial and the psychological instruments by which one's mental health status is assessed Acknowledging that determinations of trial fitness represent the most significant mental health inquiry pursued in the system of criminal law today this book carefully explains and thoroughly reviews the legal and psychological limits of competency to stand trial CST To highlight these limits authors Bardwell and Arrigo systematically investigate the controversial and high profile case of Colin Ferguson Mr Ferguson was identified as the New York City railway killer who following a competency finding elected to represent himself and was found guilty of all criminal charges The text proposes a series of clear practical and concise justice policy reforms designed to improve how the CST doctrine is understood and employed by lawyers judges psychologists and other forensic mental health professionals The book concludes by demonstrating where and how these policy recommendations would substantially change the application of the CST doctrine especially in the case of Colin Ferguson and with other high stakes defendants including that of Theodore Kaczynski a.k.a the una bomber The Power Serial Rapist Dawn J. Graney, Bruce A. Arrigo,2002 This book provides an in depth comprehensive and integrated approach to understanding the sexual offender's victim selection process Consolidating the criminological research on rape and the victimological literature on victims it deepens our knowledge about the offender his victim and the sexual crimes this rapist commits By selecting salient and useful features of past victim selection typologies this book develops a detailed assessment of what kind of individuals are likely victims and why Also this text examines the explanatory and predictive capability of the victim selection typology it proposes To this end the case of Gilbert Escobedo the Ski Mask Rapist is thoroughly explored Following important background material on this power serial rapist past victimization models and theories are applied to the case for purposes of interpreting and explaining Escobedo s method of selecting victims Moreover the victim selection typology developed by the authors is also applied to the Escobedo case The authors demonstrate where and how their own typology significantly advances our assessment of sexual offenders like the Ski Mask Rapist The text concludes by reviewing the implications of the authors model for purposes of future clinical treatment criminal justice administration and policy and ongoing research

Social Justice/criminal Justice Bruce A. Arrigo,1999 This reader features contributions from the best known names in criminology today commenting on modern theories of criminology and how the concept of justice is met or not met by our criminal justice system Based on critical theories of criminology each author presents a compelling vision of illustrations of the theory and shows how the theoretical framework relates to the nature and structure of our criminal justice system

Integrative Criminology Gregg Barak,1998 The essays collected together in this volume explore a development in criminology the emerging paradigm of integrative study The integrative wave covers both mainstream and critical criminologies and is part of a larger and emerging paradigm of interdisciplinarity that transcends East West and North South relations This book is essentially devoted to the value and practice of interdisciplinary criminology The contributions aim to represent the full array of integrative thinking and analysis and are divided into five parts

Conscience, Consensus, & Crossroads in Law Roberta Kevelson,1995 This book explores from selected semioticians international and cross cultural viewpoints the changing concepts of custom and community The idea of the primitive as a complex social system is explored in the context of recent studies of comparative law The range of focus is from Lockean majority rule to aboriginal self determination and includes a new look at waning ideologies such as the old feminism Critical Legal Studies and postmodernisms Pragmatism is reinterpreted and reviewed with fresh eyes

Critical Criminology at the Edge Dragan Milovanovic,2002-07-30 This study introduces key emerging perspectives in postmodern analysis and discusses how they might be integrated synthesized and applied in criminology law and social justice Milovanovic first familiarizes readers with discourse analysis Lacanian chaos theory catastrophe theory and edgework theory Next he covers various practical applications through literature and film in client lawyer practices etc These new critical perspectives will be invaluable tools for scholars in law criminology criminal justice sociology and law enforcement These theories shed light on how nonmaterially motivated forms of crime those that provide adrenalin rushes or excitement can be understood They help to explain the development of sudden forms of violence such as criminal acts by disgruntled workers as well as how mediation practices can curtail such escalating violence Milovanovic also demonstrates how constitutive theorizing can serve as an umbrella integrative theory which provides sufficient space for various syntheses A case in point is how edgework theory adrenalin rush excitement visceral experiences can be understood in criminology and in the establishment of social justice Humanity & Society ,2000 Current Publications in Legal and Related Fields ,1997 The Legal Studies Forum ,1994
