Contributions to the Edinburgh Review Lord Francis Jeffrey Jeffrey, 1844      Contributions to the Edinburgh Review, Vol. 1 of 4 (Classic Reprint) Francis Jeffrey, 2015-07-08 Excerpt from Contributions to the Edinburgh Review Vol 1 of 4 No reasonable man I suppose could contemplate without alarm a project for reprinting with his name a long series of miscellaneous papers written hastily in the intervals of graver occupations and published anonymously during the long course of Forty preceding years especially if before such a suggestion was made he had come to be placed in a Situation which made any recurrence to past indiscretions or rash judgments peculiarly unbecoming I expect therefore to be very readily believed when I say that the project of this publication did not originate and never would have originated with me And that I have been induced to consent to it only after great hesitation and not without misgivings which have not yet been entirely got over The true account of the matter is this The papers in question are the lawful property and substantially at the disposal of the publishers of the Edinburgh Review And they having conceived an opinion that such a publication would be for their advantage expressed a strong desire that I should allow it to go out with the sanction of my name and the benefit of such suggestions as I might be disposed to offer for its improvement and having in the end most liberally agreed that I should have the sole power both of determining to what extent it should be carried and also of selecting the materials of which it should be composed I was at last persuaded to agree to the proposition and this the more readily in consequence of intimation having been received of a similar publication being in contemplation in the United States of America over which of course I could not under any arrangements expect to exercise the same efficient control With all this however I still feel that I am exposed to the imputation not only of great presumption in supposing that any of these old things could be worth reprinting but of a more serious Impropriety in thus openly acknowledging and giving a voluntary sanction to the republication of some at least of the following pieces And I am far from being sure that there may not be just grounds for such an imputation In palliation of the offence however if such offence shall be taken I would beg leave humbly to state First that what I now venture to reprint is but a small part less I believe than a third of what I actually contributed to the Review and Secondly that I have honestly endeavoured to select from that great mass not those articles which I might think most likely still to attract notice by boldness of view severity of remark or vivacity of expression but those much rather which by enforcing what appeared to me just principles and useful opinions I really thought had a tendency to make men happier and better I am quite aware of the arrogance which may be ascribed to this statement and even of the ridicule which may attach to it Nevertheless it is the only apology which I now wish to make or could seriously think of making for the present publication And if it should be thought utterly to fail me I shall certainly feel that I have been betrayed into an act not of imprudence merely but of great impropriety I trust however that I shall not be driven back on so painful a conviction The Edinburgh Review it is well known aimed high from the beginning And refusing to confine itself to the humble task of pronouncing on the mere literary merits of the works that came before it professed to go deeply into the Principles on which its judgments were to be rested as well as to take large and Original views of all the important questions to which those works might relate And on the whole I think it is now pretty generally admitted that it attained the end it aimed at Many errors there were of course and some considerable blunders abundance of indiscretions especially in the earlier numbers

Essays, Selected from Contributions to the Edinburgh Review: Supplementary vol Henry Rogers, 1855 Contributions to the Edinburgh Review, Vol. 2 of 4 (Classic Reprint) Francis Jeffrey, 2015-07-14 Excerpt from Contributions to the Edinburgh Review Vol 2 of 4 The only other part of Lord Holland s statement to which we think it necessary to call the attention of the reader is that in which he thinks it necessary to explain the peculiar notions which Mr Fox entertained on the subject of historical composition and the very rigid laws to which he had subjected himself in the execution of his important task It is therefore necessary to Observe that he had formed his plan SO exclusively on the model of ancient writers that he not only felt some repugnance to the modern practice of notes but he thought that all which an historian wished to say should be introduced as part of a continued narration and never assume the appearance of a digression much less of a dissertation annexed to it From the period therefore that he closed his Introductory Chapter he defined his duty as an author to consist in recounting the facts as they arose or in his simple and forcible language in telling the story of those times A con versation which passed on the subject of the literature of the age of James the Second proves his rigid adherence to these ideas and per haps the substance of it may serve to illustrate and explain them In Speaking Of the writers of that period he lamented that he had not devised a method of interweaving any account of them or their works much less any criticism on their style

into his history On my suggesting the example of Hume and Voltaire who had discussed such topics at some length either at the end of each reign or in a separate chapter he observed with much commendation of their execution of it that such a contrivance might be a good mode of writing critical essays but that it was in his opinion incompatible with the nature of his undertaking which if it ceased to be a narrative ceased to be a history p Xxxvi Xxxvii About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
