Animals In Translation:

Animals in Translation Temple Grandin, Catherine Johnson, 2006 Animal scientist Temple Grandin argues that people with autism think the way animals think and draws from her experiences with autism to discuss how animals think act and feel

Animals in Translation Temple Grandin, 2010 Identifies commonalities between animals and autistics based on the author's life as an autistic offering insight into how animals process sensory information and how they often possess unrecognized savant level talents

Animals in Translation Temple Grandin, Catherine Johnson, 2006 Animals in Translation is the culmination of Temple Grandin's extraordinary life's work drawing upon the latest research her distinguished career as an animal scientist and her own experience of being autistic With co author Catherine Johnson Grandin argues that while normal people convert experience into words and abstractions animals and autistics process the world as sensory information specific pictures sights and sounds This difference is the key to understanding how animals see think and feel As much a revelation about life with autism as it is about life with animals Animals in Translation explores pain fear aggression love friendship communication and learning in a startling book that will change the way you think about animals

Animals in Translation Temple Grandin, 2009-07-01

Animals in translation : using the mysteries of autism to decode animal behaviour Catherine Johnson, 2005 Temple Grandin has been known to crawl through slaughterhouses to get a sense of what the animals there are experiencing An autistic woman who as a child was recommended for institutionalisation Grandin has managed not only to enter society's mainstream but ultimately to become prominent in animal research An associate professor at Colorado State University she designs facilities used worldwide for humane handling of livestock She also invented a hug machine based on a cattle holding chute that calms autistic children In Animals in Translation co authored with science writer Catherine Johnson Grandin makes an intriguing argument that psychologically animals and autistic people have a great deal in common and that both have mental abilities typically underestimated by normal people The book is a valuable if speculative contribution to the discussion of both autism and animal intelligence two subjects on which there is little scientific consensus

Animals in the New Testament Justin David Strong, Ruben Zimmermann, 2025-08-07 This volume explores the ubiquity of animals and the remarkable density of animal language in the New Testament and its contemporary world By situating the New Testament amid ancient discourses and incorporating understanding from the emerging field of Animal Studies the contributors explore the insights that emerge when non human animals and notions of animality take centre stage By analysing the Classical contexts of the New Testament the gospels the writings of Peter Paul and John and extra canonical Christian contexts the volume identifies and explores the myriad ways in which humans find themselves and others to be like animals addressing basic notions of human and animal nature and highlighting traits such as sentience subjectivity and intentionality Ranging from the intense discussions regarding animal souls and their place in contemporary narratives to their various roles in the teachings of Jesus their depictions in the writing of the apostles and their symbolic and ethical significance in early Christianity this highly original and methodologically diverse collection introduces an unfamiliar paradigm that offers new perspectives and insights into the New Testament and its contemporary world

Wild Diplomacy Morizot, 2022-06-01 Starting from a specific case the spontaneous return of wolves to France and the intense conflicts that event has triggered the French philosopher Baptiste Morizot invites us to think about what he calls diplomacy with living beings How can we conceive of cohabitation with the most recalcitrant wildlife large predators in particular and what concrete solutions need to be invented to make this happen Drawing on knowledge gleaned from history and philosophy as well as from ethology scientific ecology and biology Wild Diplomacy prompts us to ask what relations we want to reinvent with living beings today and how we might fundamentally reimagine our status as living beings among other life forms This prize winning book has broken new ground in contemporary French environmental philosophy

The Culture of Animals in Antiquity Sian Lewis, Lloyd Llewellyn-Jones, 2018-01-09 The Culture of Animals in Antiquity provides students and researchers with well chosen and clearly presented ancient sources in translation some well known others undoubtedly unfamiliar but all central to a key area of study in ancient history the part played by animals in the cultures of the ancient Mediterranean It brings new ideas to bear on the wealth of evidence literary historical and archaeological which we possess for the experiences and roles of animals in the ancient world Offering a broad picture of ancient cultures in the Mediterranean as part of a wider ecosystem the volume is on an ambitious scale It covers a broad span of time from the sacred animals of dynastic Egypt to the imagery of the lamb in early Christianity and of region from the fallow deer introduced and bred in Roman Britain to the Asiatic lioness and her cubs brought as a gift by the Elamites to the Great King of Persia This sourcebook is essential for anyone wishing to understand the role of animals in the ancient world and support learning for one of the fastest growing disciplines in Classics

Natures in Translation Alan Bewell, 2017-01-02 Understanding the dynamics of British colonialism and the enormous ecological transformations that took place through the mobilization and globalized management of natures For many critics Romanticism is synonymous with nature writing for representations of the natural world appear during this period with a freshness concreteness depth and intensity that have rarely been equaled Why did nature matter so much to writers of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries And how did it play such an important role in their understanding of themselves and the world In Natures in Translation Alan Bewell argues that there is no Nature in the singular only natures that have undergone transformation through time and across space He examines how writers as disparate as Erasmus and Charles Darwin Joseph Banks Gilbert White William Bartram William Wordsworth John Clare and Mary Shelley understood a world in which natures were traveling and resettling the globe like never before Bewell presents British natural history as a translational activity aimed at globalizing local natures by making them mobile exchangeable comparable and representable Bewell explores how colonial writers in the period leading up to the formulation of evolutionary theory responded to a world in which new natures were coming into being while others disappeared For some of these writers colonial natural history held the promise of ushering in a cosmopolitan nature in which every species through trade and exchange might become a true citizen of the world Others struggled with the question of how to live after the natures they depended upon were gone Ultimately Natures in Translation demonstrates that far from being separate from the dominant concerns of British imperial culture nature was integrally bound up with the business of empire
