Differentiated Countryside:

The Differentiated Countryside Jonathan Murdoch, 2003 In the wake of BSE the threat to ban fox hunting and Foot and Mouth disease the English countryside appears to be in turmoil Long standing uses of rural space are in crisis and unsurprisingly political processes in rural areas are marked by conflicts between groups such as farmers environmentalists developers and local residents Using an innovative theoretical approach based on networks of conventions this book investigates the regionalisation of the English countryside through a series of case studies These studies are based on a set of ideal types the preserved countryside where environmental pressures are strongly expressed the contested countryside where development processes are shaped by disputes between agrarian and environmental interests and the paternalistic countryside where large landowners continue to oversee patterns of land development It looks in detail at landowners residents politicians planners farmers and environmentalists and shows how these groups compete The Differentiated Countryside argues that the countryside is increasingly governed by regional policies It becomes hard to discern a single English countryside we see the emergence of multiple countrysides places where diverse modes of identity are expressed and differing forms of development take place Such diversity it is argued now lies at the heart of rural England

Beyond the Rural-Urban Divide Kjell Andersson, Erland Eklund, Minna Lehtola, 2009-02-11 The rural urban dichotomy is one of the most influential figures of thought in history laying the foundation for academic disciplines such as rural and urban sociology The dichotomy rests on the assumption that rural and urban areas differ fundamentally This book deals with this topic

Heterogeneous Ruralities Gareth Enticott, 1999 Rural Planning Futures Mark Scott, John Sturzaker, Nick Gallent, Gavin Parker, Amy Burnett, Ian Mell, 2025-04-09 Rural Planning Futures charts the critical societal challenges that are reshaping rural places across the UK and Ireland The book evaluates current planning processes and explores the prospects for an enhanced cross sectoral and holistic future practice that mediates rural change towards more resilient and sustainable outcomes Rural places and planning have for too long been viewed as marginal to both the theory and practice of planning However rural places are central to addressing critical global challenges from climate action through nature recovery energy transitions and food security to water quality while also facing more localised conflicts around housing the siting of infrastructure and the challenge of sustaining local services The policy response to these complex challenges has too often been fragmented siloed and fixated on the short term By illustrating how key rural capitals are linked and integrated this book argues for a reset of the rural planning narrative and for the urgent disruption of established ways of working Using innovative case studies the chapters detail how planning for rural places must be guided by the pursuit of social value rather than protecting private interests This book is essential reading for undergraduate and graduate students in planning geography rural studies landscape studies and regional studies

Urban Planning and the British New Right Philip Allmendinger,Huw Thomas,2002-01-22 Did the 1980s and 1990s see the death of planning Exposing the myth that has grown up around Thatcherism leading experts from a wide range of land use policy areas examine the changes that were brought about in planning and the environment during the 1980s and 1990s and argue that much less was achieved than expected Urban Planning and the British New Right questions common assumptions about planning practices under Thatcherism concluding that the complex relationship of power between central local and national government requires a sensitivity to change that is inclusive rather than doctrinal This is a book that says as much about the administration institutions and processes of planning as it does about Mrs Thatcher s attempts to change it

A Region in Transition John Tomaney, Neil Ward, 2017-07-05 The UK has now joined a Europe wide trend towards more devolved forms of government e g Scotland Wales and Northern Ireland Assemblies In the context of this general trend towards regionalism as a focus for public policy and as a source of cultural and political identity an interdisciplinary team from Newcastle University combine to analyze how this affects the North East of England There has been comparatively little published on the contemporary development of English Regions and the North East is a particularly important case study as throughout the 1990s it has experienced a range of social economic and political changes This book will contribute to key contemporary policy debates which will affect all of the English regions and should be read by all social scientists interested in European regional development Sussex Wilfrid Ball,1906 Rural Planning and Management Joe Morris,2001 Recent years have seen a resurgence of interest in the importance of the rural sector in the formulation of integrated sustainable development strategies This timely volume presents a selection of writings which explore the key issues in the debate on the management of the rural environment for sustainable development Although there are considerable differences in context between developed transitional and developing countries the volume identifies common themes in the search for sustainable livelihoods vibrant communities environmental protection and the wise use of natural resources It examines the challenges of sustainable rural development relevant concepts principles techniques analytical methods and management responses The collection contains papers on topical rural issues such as sustainable agriculture forestry tourism and protected area policy It demonstrates that while there is convergence on the approaches to sustainable development notably the emphasis on market mechanisms institution building and participation local solutions need to be found Environment & Planning ,2010 The Changing American Countryside Emery N. Castle,1995 The literature on rural America to the extent that it exists has largely been written by urban based scholars perpetuating out of date notions and stereotypes or by those who see little difference between rural and agricultural concerns As a result the real rural America remains much misunderstood neglected or ignored by scholars and policymakers alike In response Emery Castle offers The Changing American Countryside a volume that will forever change how we look at this important subject Castle brings together the writings of eminent scholars from several disciplines and varying backgrounds to take a fresh and comprehensive look at the forgotten hinterlands These authors examine the role of non metropolitan people and places in the economic life of our nation and cover such diverse issues as poverty industry the environment education family social problems ethnicity race religion gender government public policy and regional diversity The authors are especially effective in demonstrating why rural America is so much more than just agriculture It is in fact highly diverse complex and interdependent with urban America and the international market place Most major rural problems they contend simply cannot be effectively addressed in isolation from their urban and international connections To do so is misguided and even hazardous when one fourth of our population and ninety seven per cent of our land area is rural Together these writings not only provide a new and more realistic view of rural life and public policy but also suggest how the field of rural studies can greatly enrich our understanding of national life Environment and Planning ,2003 Publishes interdisciplinary research on issues of Government and Policy with an international perspective Committed to a broad range of policy questions not just those related to government and public policy Topics covered include nonstate agents private public collaboration and NGOs nongovernmental organisations All areas of economic social and environmental institutions and policy are included Disciplines from which papers are derived include political science planning geography
