Avery Hopwood Jack F. Sharrar, 1989 In 1920 Avery Hopwood was America's most successful playwright achieving the distinction of having four concurrent hits on the Broadway stage Today however he is best known as benefactor of the Hopwood Awards in Creative Writing presented to student writers by his alma mater the University of Michigan awards that have encouraged the early writings of such celebrated authors as Marge Piercy Arthur Miller Frank O'Hara and Robert Hayden among others Hopwood was a clever craftsman of facile wit and unflagging energy He concocted over a score of frothy entertainments in the 1920s such as Fair and Warmer The Gold Diggers which generated numerous MGM musicals Ladies Night In a Turkish Bath Getting Gertie's Garter The Demi Virgin and the hugely popular mystery thriller The Bat coauthored with Mary Roberts Rinehart Jack F. Sharrar's critical biography makes use of a rich array of primary sources including Hopwood's unpublished novel and his letters to such friends as Gertrude Stein Carl Van Vechten and Mary Roberts Rinehart to chronicle Hopwood's life and career The book provides fresh insights on the playwright his plays and the personalities who produced and performed in them by surveying the commercial theatre of the period Until recently out of print the new edition includes a foreword by Nicholas Delbanco Director of the University of Michigan's Hopwood Awards Program an afterword by Jack Sharrar that sheds new light on the passionate tumultuous relationship between Hopwood and John Floyd and many rare illustrations from American theatre history

Race-ing Representation Kostas Myrsiades, Linda S. Myrsiades, 1998 This collection takes on the problem of representing race in the context of a master language and culture These essays discuss this problem in terms of the ongoing struggle to redefine the self as speaker that is to re-construct our understanding of history sexuality and speech itself in a continuing battle for self-definition As a totality these essays explode the notion of race as a natural boundary between groups and pose a variety of possible constructions that force us to accept race not as a category but as a practice Kostas and Linda Myrsiades have brought together scholars whose varied essays explore the issues of voice history and sexuality in such diverse venues as detective fiction the Clarence Thomas hearings the witches of Salem the Harlem Renaissance and the work of Toni Morrison demonstrating that resistance to race-ing is both meaningfully engaged as a cultural possibility and rewritten as a linguistic practice

W.H. Downing's Digger Dialects Walter Hubert Downing, 1990 Digger Dialects is a unique record of one of Australian English's most creative and crowded hours The words and phrases used by Australian personnel in World War I were noted in 1919 by W. H. Downing and are presented here with editorial comments and additions Words which have new meanings or wider applications are frozen as they were in 1919 words which meant something at that time mean little now and need to be explained The editors of this volume describe how the phrase going into cold storage meant to be killed in the winter of 1916 how kangaroo feathers was a jocular name for the emu plumes worn by members of the Australian Light Horse Brigade The book is enhanced by 100 illustrations drawn from field or troopship magazines which aim to provide something of the spirit and flavour of the times
