Dimanche A La Piscine A Kigali:

Un dimanche à la piscine à Kigali Gil Courtemanche, 2006 Bernard Valcourt journaliste qui b cois part au d but des ann es 90 au Rwanda pour installer une t l vision libre et ind pendante Sur place il d couvre l univers des Occidentaux r unis chaque semaine autour de la piscine d un h tel mais aussi la violence dans le pays les pr mices du g nocide avec les exactions des milices les massacres dans les villages Premier roman Un dimanche à la piscine à Kigali Gil Courtemanche, 2000

A Sunday at the Pool in Kigali Gil Courtemanche, 2004-04-20 Look for people who re going to be dead soon we re not doing too badly The novel of the year is what La Presse called this extraordinary book a love story that takes place in the days leading up to the 1994 genocide in Rwanda A first work of fiction by one of French Canada s most admired journalists Gil Courtemanche it was first published in Quebec in 2000 spent more than a year on bestseller lists and won the Prix des Libraires the booksellers award for outstanding book of the year Rights were sold to publishers in over twenty countries in Europe and around the world This humanist story of an unlikely love affair set against a holocaust has become an internationally acclaimed phenomenon worthy of comparison with the work of Graham Greene and Albert Camus The swimming pool of the Mille Collines hotel Kigali in the early 1990s draws a regular crowd of assorted aid workers strutting Rwandan officials Belgian businessmen French paratroops and Canadian expats Among them is Bernard Valcourt a documentary filmmaker from Quebec on a mission to set up a television station in the capital Valcourt who for two decades has earned his living from wars and famines lingers around the pool drinking warm beer and watching football but most of all watching Gentille a beautiful young waitress who is a Hutu but often mistaken for a Tutsi because of her family s strange history The trouble coming stems from a long conflict instigated in colonial times by Whites who treated Tutsis as superior to Hutus The Hutu government is now openly encouraging violence against Tutsis The physical traits of the Tutsis make them easy prey but they are not the only ones in danger Too many people are already dying in Rwanda daily of AIDS of malaria and increasingly at roadblocks at the hands of drunken militia or pulled from their homes The hotel staff and prostitutes sense trouble and death drawing closer as they continue providing drinks and meals and sex The story of this developing catastrophe is revealed through the lives of a handful of Rwandans who befriend Valcourt They confide in him because he listens and because his interviews offer them a chance to try to change the way things are by telling the world Their candour and warmth begin to make his heart glow He meets people like M thode who knows a bloodbath is brewing and would rather die of AIDS in the comfort of a hotel room than by a machete Threatened frightened sick they don t want to talk and act like they re dying Poor as they are they want to have some moments of pleasure and celebrate life As Kigali life continues in its resourcefulness and persistence Valcourt is falling in love with Rwanda and with Gentille who loves him because he sees her as no one has seen her before Even as the worst horrors begin as friends are raped and murdered he starts to feel a strange peace in this land of a thousand hills though he repudiates the outside world for its failure to intervene Because Gentille is thought to be Tutsi her life is in danger Still no one can believe that the extremists will go too far that brothers and sisters will kill brothers and sisters and that 800 000 civilians will be massacred A hard hitting chronicle of an overlooked chapter of recent history told with skill and compassion A Sunday at the Pool in Kigali is also a celebration of living in the moment of the integrity of friendship and the courage of everyday heroes Harrowing unsettling challenging but beautiful and moving it is a book that cannot leave the reader untouched as a Quill Quire reviewer said it is full of real people that demand to be remembered Le lecteur engagé Isabelle Poulin,2007 Rwanda After Genocide Caroline Williamson

Sinalo,2018-10-04 In the 1994 Rwanda genocide around 1 million people were brutally murdered in just thirteen weeks This book offers an in depth study of posttraumatic growth in the testimonies of the men and women who survived highlighting the ways in which they were able to build a new and often enhanced way of life In so doing Caroline Williamson Sinalo advocates a new reading of trauma one that recognises not just the negative but also the positive responses to traumatic experiences Through an analysis of testimonies recorded in Kinyarwanda by the Genocide Archive of Rwanda the book focuses particularly on the relationship between posttraumatic growth and gender and examines it within the wider frames of colonialism and traditional cultural practices Offering a striking alternative to dominant paradigms on trauma the book reveals that notwithstanding the countless tales of horror pain and loss in Rwanda there are also stories of strength recovery and growth Postcolonial Violence, Culture and Identity in Francophone Africa and the Antilles Lorna Milne,2007 This collection of essays derives from a conference on Violence Culture and Identity held in St Andrews in June 2003 It examines postcolonial cultures and identities by investigating the way in which violence is represented by Francophone creative artists

The Postcolonial African Genocide Novel Chigbo Arthur Anyaduba,2021-10-01 An Open Access edition of this book is available on the Liverpool University Press website and through Knowledge Unlatched In The Postcolonial African Genocide Novel Chigbo Anyaduba examines fictional responses to mass atrocities occurring in postcolonial Africa Through a comparative reading of novels responding to the genocides of the Igbo in Nigeria 1966 1970 and the Tutsi in Rwanda 1990 1994 the book underscores the ways that literary encounters with genocides in Africa s postcolonies have attempted to reimagine the conditions giving rise to exterminatory forms of mass violence The book concretizes and troubles one of the apparent truisms of genocide studies especially in the context of imaginative literature that the reality of genocide more often than not resists meaningfulness Particularly given the centrality of this truism to artistic responses to the Holocaust and to genocides more generally Anyaduba tracks the astonishing range of meanings drawn by writers at a series of temporal spatial historical cultural and other removes from the realities of genocide in Africa s postcolonies a set of meanings that are often highly specific and irreducible to maxims or foundational cases The book shows that in the artistic projects to construct meanings against genocide s nihilism writers of African genocides deploy tropes that while significantly oriented to African concerns are equally shaped by the representational conventions and practices associated with the legacies of the Holocaust

Remembering Genocide Nigel Eltringham, Pam Maclean, 2014-06-27 In Remembering Genocide an international group of scholars draw on current research from a range of disciplines to explore how communities throughout the world remember genocide. Whether coming to terms with atrocities committed in Namibia and Rwanda, Australia, Canada, the Punjab, Armenia, Cambodia, and during the Holocaust, those seeking to remember genocide are confronted with numerous challenges. Survivors grapple with the possibility or even the desirability of recalling painful memories. Societies where genocide has been perpetrated find it difficult to engage with an uncomfortable historical legacy. Still, to forget genocide, as this volume edited by Nigel Eltringham and Pam Maclean shows, is not an option. To do so reinforces the vulnerability of groups whose very existence remains in jeopardy and denies them the possibility of bringing perpetrators to justice. Contributors discuss how genocide is represented in media, including literature, memorial books, film, and audiovisual testimony. Debates surrounding the role museums and monuments play in constructing and transmitting memory are highlighted. Finally, authors engage with controversies arising from attempts to mobilise and manipulate memory in the service of reconciliation, compensation, and transitional justice.

Le Québec traduit en Espagne María Sierra Córdoba Serrano, 2013-05-15 Comment une petite nation peut-elle exister et subsister dans l'espace culturel mondial actuel? Par quels mécanismes une culture minoritaire peut-elle être exportée et se tailler un créneau dans un marché culturel centralisé? L'ouvrage examine les transferts culturels du Canada vers l'Espagne en analysant un corpus de 77 traductions d'œuvres littéraires québécoises traduites en Espagne en espagnol et en catalan entre 1975 et 2004. Les analyses théoriques de cette étude reposent sur la sociologie des champs de Pierre Bourdieu appliquée à la traduction et s'appuient d'une part sur les études de réseaux et d'autre part sur la recherche dans le domaine de la diplomatie culturelle. L'auteure montre comment les intérêts propres de chacun des champs culturels concernés (source canadienne et québécoise et cible espagnole et catalane) se traduisent par des stratégies politiques, commerciales, éditoriales et textuelles différenciées. L'ouvrage porte en outre un regard inédit sur le rôle déterminant, mais non déterministe, des acteurs institutionnels (ici canadiens) et québécois qui développent des stratégies et des structures visant à promouvoir et accueillir la littérature québécoise en Espagne et en Catalogne. L'auteure se penche aussi sur l'action d'autres agents (éditeurs, directeurs de collection, traducteurs, professeurs de littérature, etc.) qui jouent un rôle central dans le transfert concerné.

The Camp Colman Hogan, Marta Marin-Dòmine, 2007 The camp is nothing if not diverse in kind scope and particularity in sociological and juridical configuration in texture iconography and political import Adjectives of camp specificity embrace a spectrum from extermination and concentration to detention migration deportation and refugee camps And while the geographic range covered by contributors is hardly global it is broad Chile Rwanda Canada the US Central Europe Morocco Algeria South Africa France and Spain And yet is to so characterize the camp to run the risk of diffusing what in origin is a concentration into a paratactical series of oidentity particularisms While The Camp does not seek to antithetically promulgate a universalist vision it does aim to explore the imbrication of the particular and the universal to analyze the structure of a camp or camps and to call attention the role of the listener in the construction of the testimony For by naming what cannot be said is not every narrative of internment and exclusion a potential site of agency articulating the inner splitting of language that Giorgio Agamben defines as the locus of testimony oeto bear witness is to place oneself in one TM's own language in the position of those who have lost it to establish oneself in a living language as if it were dead or in a dead language as if it were living
