Gergen,K.E. Davis,2012-12-06 This volume grew out of a discussion between the editors at the Society for Experimental Social Psychology meeting in Nashville in 1981 For many years the Society has played a leading role in encouraging rigorous and sophisticated research Yet our discussion that day was occupied with what seemed a major problem with this finely honed tradition namely it was preoccupied with accurate renderings of reality while generally insensitive to the process by which such renderings are achieved This tradition presumed that there were brute facts to be discovered about human interaction with little consideration of the social processes through which factuality is established To what degree are accounts of persons constrained by the social process of rendering as opposed to the features of those under scrutiny This concern with the social process by which persons are constructed was hardly ours alone In fact within recent years such concerns have been voiced with steadily increasing clarity across a variety of disciplines Ethno methodologists were among the first in the social sciences to puncture the taken for granted realities of life Many sociologists of science have also turned their attention to the way social organizations of scientists create the facts necessary to sustain these organizations Historians of science have entered a similar enterprise in elucidating the social economic and ideological conditions enabling certain formulations to flourish in the sciences while others are suppressed Many social anthropologists have also been intrigued by cross cultural variations in the concept of the human being      Pathological Self-Criticism Raymond M. Bergner,2013-06-29 Raymond M Bergner offers the first comprehensive reference to address the highly prevalent and debilitating forms of self criticism This resource features an extensive array of strategies for assessing these patterns as well as the factors maintaining them In addition the volume is complete with therapeutic intervention strategies to help patients abandon pathological self critical practices The author describes a therapeutic relationship that greatly enhances the efficacy of the interventions mentioned throughout the book      Adv Behav Assess Childrnv4 198
