Reshaping the Expeditionary Army to Win Decisively: The Case for Greater Stabilization Capacity in the Modular Force ,2005 Today the U S Army is decisively engaged in both fighting an unfamiliar type of war and transforming itself to meet the challenges of future warfare But what are those challenges What capabilities does U S strategy demand of its military instrument Where are the major capability gaps and how should they inform Army Transformation to ensure the future expeditionary Army has the right campaign qualities This paper argues that the major capability gap in today s force and vital for future campaigns is the ability to conduct stabilization It begins with exploring the changes in U S strategy that are the impetus behind the need for greater capacity to conduct post conflict stabilization and reconstruction Then it analyzes the emerging role of the Army in post conflict operations in the context of modern combat to more fully understand the specific requirements of stabilization The paper then develops an operational concept progressive stabilization that complements the Army s concept of rapid decisive operations while improving its ability to contribute to long term conflict resolution It outlines three key force attributes an expeditionary force structure must have to provide the requisite mix of combat and stabilization capabilities Finally this paper builds on those attributes to suggest three areas where Army leaders must make near term adjustments in the Modular Force to ensure the nation has a truly expeditionary force with the campaign capacity for both rapid decisive operations and stabilization

Extremisms in Africa Volume 2 Alain Tschudin, Craig Moffat, Stephen Buchanan-Clarke, Susan Russell, Lloyd Coutts, 2019-06-18 Over the past two decades the rapid emergence and spread of both local and transnational extremist organisations has become a primary source of insecurity in Africa. Extremist organisations represent the fluid and variable nature of conflict systems today and are at the heart of some of Africa's most enduring conflicts. Moreover, the inability of African states to contain the threat of extremism or of heavy handed security responses has led to the loss of thousands of lives, displaced millions and deeply impacted the continent's democratisation and development goals. This is the second anthology published by Good Governance Africa (GGA) on the topic of extremism and political violence in Africa. Extremisms in Africa is one of the first anthologies of its kind on this topic to be authored and published on the African continent, providing an account of how extremist groups arose in Africa and the various ways in which they have harnessed their global agendas to local conflict dynamics and structural challenges, enabling them to exploit the grievances of individuals and communities for their cause. This anthology, Extremisms in Africa Volume 2, looks forward, giving special attention to the ways in which emergent trends in global geopolitics and conflict dynamics merge to impact upon the African continent. To this end, we have sought to engage diverse topics ranging from ecological concerns surrounding climate change and migration, the implications of such human movement for modern day trafficking and slavery, and the roles of women and youth. State responses to extremism on the African continent are not uniform; the capacity of individual states to detect, identify, police, investigate and prosecute is highly variable. At the most fundamental level, extremism is ripe to arise in contexts where governments are failing, especially when democracy is on the wane. This anthology identifies some of the most pressing challenges in addressing extremism today and provides chapters that could offer actionable policy insights to governments and civil society. Given the nature of Africa's geopolitical landscape, state and security services alone cannot prevent extremism. It will take a whole of society approach where government, civil society, academia, communities, families and individuals collaborate to better understand the local dynamics of recruitment and radicalisation and develop context specific strategies in response. This anthology will hopefully provide practitioners with improved insight into some of the key challenges and potential solutions in preventing extremism, while also being of interest to the general reader.

Cities, Nationalism and Democratization Scott A. Bollens, 2007-04-11 Cities, Nationalism and Democratization provides a theoretically informed, practice oriented account of intercultural conflict and co-existence in cities. Bollens uses a wide ranging set of over 100 interviews with local political and community leaders to investigate how popular urban policies can trigger pushes from below that help nation states address social and political challenges. The book brings the city and the urban scale into contemporary debates about democratic transformations in ethnically diverse countries. It connects the city on conceptual and pragmatic levels to two leading issues of today: the existence of competing and potentially destructive nationalistic allegiances and the limitations of democracy in multinational societies. Bollens finds that cities and urbanists are not necessarily hemmed in by ethnic conflict and political gridlock but can be proactive agents that stimulate the progress of societal normalization. The fuller potential of cities is in their ability to catalyze multinational democratization. Alternately, if cities are left unprotected and unmanaged, ethnic antagonists can fragment the city's collective interests in ways that slow down and confine the advancement of sustainable democracy. This book will be helpful to scholars, international organizations, and grassroots organizations in understanding why and how the peace constitutive city emerges in some cases while it is misplaced and neglected in others.

Regional Guide to International Conflict and Management from 1945 to 2003 Jacob Bercovitch, Judith Fretter, 2004-11-23. This work provides information on the over 350 international conflicts that have occurred since World War II. Includes sections on each regional context, chronological summaries of each conflict, and covering history, circumstances, players, management, and outcome. Introduction examines global patterns and trends in international conflict.

23rd DASC, 2004. Military Intervention, Stabilisation and Peace Christian Dennys, 2014-05-30. This book examines international military interventions that have supported stability in four communities in Afghanistan and Nepal in an attempt to analyse their success and improve this in future. This is the first in-depth village level assessment of how local populations conceive of stability and stabilisation and provides a theory and model for how stability can be created in communities during and after conflict. The data was collected during field research from 2010-12. In Afghanistan, the conflicts examined include the invasion of the Soviet Union in 1979, the civil war from 1992, and the rise and fall of the Taliban. In Nepal, the research examined the origins of the Maoist movement and the start of the People's War in 1996 to its completion in 2006 and the subsequent Madeshi Andolan in 2007. The book argues that international, particularly Western, notions of stability and stabilisation processes have failed to grasp the importance of local political legitimacy formation, which is a vital aspect of contemporary statebuilding of a non-Westphalian nature. The interventions across defence, diplomatic, and defence lines have also at times undermined one another and in some cases contributed to instability. The work argues that the theories that structure interventions to address threats to international stability in fragile states are insufficient to explain or achieve the goal of stability. This book will be of interest to students of stabilisation operations, statebuilding, peacebuilding, counterinsurgency, war, and conflict studies, and security studies in general. Christian Dennys is lecturer at Cranfield University, UK Defence Academy, and has a PhD in International Relations.

Governing the Feminist Peace Paul C. Kirby, Laura Shepherd, 2024-04-02. The Women, Peace, and Security (WPS) agenda is celebrated as a landmark global framework for achieving gender equality in peace and security governance. Its power is visible in two decades of United Nations resolutions, national action plans, regional initiatives, and countless activist, academic, and philanthropic projects. Yet despite this vitality, it is haunted by failure as a lack of political will and stubborn patriarchal resistance frustrate its promise. This book offers a groundbreaking critical account of the WPS agenda, exploring its evolution in relation to the wider politics.

of global governance and feminism Paul Kirby and Laura J Shepherd argue that WPS is not a settled cohesive policy but a field in flux defined and disrupted by a growing number of national supranational subnational and transnational agents who in turn act on an expanding catalogue of threats from climate change to homophobia challenging traditional boundaries of peace and security Kirby and Shepherd reconceptualize WPS as a policy ecosystem tracing interaction and contestation around the agenda across levels from the UN Security Council to military alliances to feminist activists They combine analysis of a vast dataset of policy documents with key informant interviews and close readings of diplomacy statecraft the politics of indigeneity counterinsurgency antimilitarism human rights and the arms trade across the first twenty years of WPS Far reaching and incisive Governing the Feminist Peace poses a provocative question What if we abandoned the idea of the WPS agenda as a unified political project altogether
