Conscience In Medieval Philosophy:

Conscience in Medieval Philosophy Timothy C. Potts, 2002-04-18 This book presents in translation writings by six medieval philosophers which bear on the subject of conscience. Conscience which can be considered both as a topic in the philosophy of mind and a topic in ethics has been unduly neglected in modern philosophy where a prevailing belief in the autonomy of ethics leaves it no natural place. It was however a standard subject for a treatise in medieval philosophy. Three introductory translations here from Jerome Augustine and Peter Lombard present the loci classici on which subsequent discussions drew. There follows the first complete treatise on conscience by Philip the Chancellor while the two remaining translations from Bonaventure and Aquinas have been chosen as outstanding examples of the two main approaches which crystallised during the thirteenth century.

The Fall and Redemption of Conscience (Studies in Historical and Systematic Theology) Andrea Ferrari, 2026-01-27 Conscience from creation to new creation. The God who created conscience is Father, Son, and Spirit. Thus conscience is properly understood in relation to our Triune God and his work in the world: the Father's creation, the Son's redemption, and the Spirit's perfection. In The Fall and Redemption of Conscience, Andrea Ferrari explores conscience in Trinitarian and redemptive historical contexts. Ferrari draws from Scripture and theologians of the past, particularly John Calvin and John Webster, to build a comprehensive theology of the human experience in relation to God. Conscience is a covenantal awareness and vocational responsiveness. As such, conscience is how we recognize our lives and responsibilities as created and redeemed beings in covenant with God. The book includes a foreword by Paul T. Nimmo.

The Arts of Disruption Nicolette Zeeman, 2020-07-22 The monograph series Oxford Studies in Medieval Literature and Culture showcases the plurilingual and multicultural quality of medieval literature and actively seeks to promote research that not only focuses on the array of subjects medievalists now pursue in literature, theology, and philosophy in social, political, jurisprudential, and intellectual history, the history of art, and the history of science, but also that combines these subjects productively. It offers innovative studies on topics that may include, but are not limited to, manuscript and book history, languages and literatures of the global Middle Ages, race and the post-colonial, the digital humanities, media and performance, music, medicine, the history of affect and the emotions, the literature and practices of devotion, the theory and history of gender and sexuality, ecocriticism, and the environment, theories of aesthetics, medievalism. The Arts of Disruption: Allegory and Piers Plowman offers a series of new readings of the allegorical poem Piers Plowman, but it is also a book about allegory. It argues not just that there are distinctively disruptive arts that occur in allegory, but that allegory, because it is interested in the difficulty of making meaning, is itself a disruptive art. The book approaches this topic via the study of five medieval allegorical narrative structures that exploit diegetic conflict and disruption. Although very different, they all bring together contrasting descriptions of spiritual process in order to develop new understanding and excite moral or devotional change. These five structures are the paradiastolic hypocritical figure, such as vices masked by being made to look like adjacent virtues personification debate violent language and gestures of apophysis narratives of bodily decline and grail romance Each appears in a range of texts which the book explores along with other connected materials in medieval rhetoric logic grammar spiritual thought ethics medicine and romance iconography These allegorical narrative structures appear radically transformed in Piers Plowman where the poem makes further meaning out of the friction between them Much of the allegorical work of the poem occurs at the points of their intersection and within the conceptual gaps that open up between them Ranging across a wide variety of medieval allegorical texts the book shows from many perspectives allegory s juxtaposition of the heterogeneous and its questioning of supposed continuities The Treatise on Human Nature St. Thomas Aquinas, Robert Pasnau, 2002-01-01 This series offers central philosophical treatises of Aquinas in new state of the art translations distinguished by their accuracy and use of clear and non technical modern vocabulary Annotation and commentary accessible to undergraduates make the series an ideal vehicle for the study of Aquinas by readers approaching him from a variety of backgrounds and interests Rethinking Intentionality, Person and the Essence, 2024-02-26 What is the relationship between the concept of person and the concept of intentionality Is the phenomenological notion of essence somehow related to that of medieval philosophies What kind of entity is the person understood in her irreducible singularity These are some of the questions that the chapters in this book seek to address and develop by focusing on the thought of Aquinas Scotus and Edith Stein Indeed the editors of the book are led by the conviction that a fruitful dialogue between medieval philosophy and 20th century phenomenology may prove useful in addressing questions and problems that are still relevant in contemporary debates The book is divided into three sections devoted respectively to medieval philosophy phenomenology and some of the possible systematic and historical intersections between them Contributors are Sarah Borden Sharkey Antonio Calcagno Therese Cory Daniele De Santis Andrew LaZella Dominik Perler Giorgio Pini Francesco Valerio Tommasi Anna Tropia and Ingrid Vendrell Ferran Franciscan Studies, 1993 Issues for 1941 44 include the Report of the 23rd 26th annual meeting of the Franciscan Educational Conference Cithara, 1983 Mind, 1885 A quarterly review of philosophy A Quest for Moral Conscience in Igbo Culture Onuorah Paulinus Ejiofor, 2006

Consciousness and Self-Knowledge in Medieval Philosophy Gyula Klima, 2018-11-21 Contemporary introductions to the theme of self knowledge too often trace its emergence in the history of philosophy to thinkers such as Ren Descartes and David Hume Whereas Descartes conceives of self knowledge as intimate and first personal Hume contends that it is limited to our awareness of our impressions and ideas In point of fact self knowledge is a perennial theme We may for instance trace the lineage of Hume and Descartes on these matters to Aristotle and Plato respectively This volume studies philosophical treatments of self knowledge in the Medieval Latin West It comprises two sets of papers the first is taken from an author meets critics session on Therese Scarpelli Cory s Aquinas on Human Self Knowledge which advances the thesis that Aquinas s theory of self knowledge wherein the intellect grasps itself in its activity bridges the divide between mediated and first personal self knowledge The second set of papers discuss self knowledge in terms of self fulfilment Authors look to Aquinas s account of how we can know when we have acquired the virtues necessary for human happiness as well as the medieval traditions of mysticism and theology which offer accounts of transformative self knowledge the fulfilment that this brings to our emotional and physical selves and the authority to teach and counsel about what this awareness confers The New Encyclopædia Britannica: Macropædia ,1993 This encyclopedia includes a two volume index a 12 volume Micropaedia Ready reference a 17 volume Macropaedia Knowledge in depth and the Propaedia The Text of Casuistry in the Renaissance Lowell Gallagher,1989 Keeping Memory Fresh Rebecca Webster Starks,2007 The New Encyclopaedia Britannica: Macropaedia : Knowledge in depth ,2003 JEGP, Journal of English and Germanic Philology Gustaf E.
