Abstract: A new concept for Personal Communication System that achieves the ultimate object of all communications systems to enable anyone to communicate anywhere with anyone else anywhere is proposed. This concept offers a personal area or network with subscriber access systems for both wired and radio systems. Its three principal concepts are: (1) assigning a personal identity such as a Personal Telecommunication Number for an individual, and the network traces the person's routing; (2) serving a fixed and portable units for radio and wired, and (3) serving advanced functions such as the network playing the role of secretary. System architecture and some problems are also presented.

1. Introduction

Recently the information-oriented society has developed, and the social and cultural structure has changed to a great extent. A great variety of people's behavior in the communication world, caused by advanced services that enable us to communicate conveniently with anyone anywhere in space and time is manifesting. In order to realize this type of user-oriented service, many kinds of systems are being studied or developed, such as mobile, automobile radio systems (MRS, IRS), and advanced cordless systems (MPT, MTS, Telepoint, MCOM, MPCS, etc.).

In international standardization, CCITT standardized in 1981, in the preliminary stage discussing a mobile and cordless approaches, in ITU-T S11 and S12, CCITT-86L, S11, S12, 1, and S12L, several subjects are discussed, for example, numbering, network functions, signaling, and so on (1)(2)(3).

There are many problems involved in offering economic personal communication services to users. One of the major problems, however, will probably arise from the network resources that are applied for radio systems in a wide area. The present work is a study on how efficiently these resources can be allocated to a sufficient number of subscribers and a radio user number must be less than several 10<sup>4</sup> - 10<sup>5</sup> per cell. The radio area should also be rationalized to realize above-mentioned portable terminals that are accompanied by large cables can be for wireless power. Furthermore, in order to become a sufficient number of service areas, a large number of radio systems has to be set, and the more systems more have to be set in the wide area. The number of radio systems must be less than several 10<sup>4</sup> per cell. The number of service areas must be less than several 10<sup>4</sup> per cell. As a result, the existing system configurations will agree very difficult problems in extending the service area.

For this reason we propose an advanced personal communication system in which each subscriber is located registration and contains a portable and mobile for public communication networks. Configuration and mobile service developments can be realized by using public communication network facilities as transport systems. The proposed system enables each person to afford a portable telephone in a wide area of large communication and service capacity.

2. Service Concept

- (1) Personal communication anytime and anywhere by using Personal Telecommunication Number (PTN).
- (2) Portable - Easily to locate with both wired and radio systems for service areas including very small areas and large public areas.
- (3) Portable services according to user's choice and purpose.

Radio service design for service in PTN. The proposed system requires a large number of stationary telephone sets, but the radio terminals. Service for wireless systems, such as home office, or business. The mobility should be less than or equal to that of mobile. A portable service provided from the
