Confronting Future Challenges Fernando Reimers, Noel F. McGinn, Kate Wild, 1995 The simultaneous presence of a revolutionary change in information technologies and a growing demand for fundamental changes in the education system have set in motion a reassessment of the relationship among information research and decision making The International Bureau of Education IBE considered it necessary to introduce new elements into the discussion based on the conclusions of a series of new case studies on the use of research in the process of educational change and on the ways that educational information and documentation systems function There are two studies presented here Using Research in Educational Policy and Administrative Decision Making Fernando Reimers and Noel McGinn and Information Availability and Its Impact on Educational Policy Making Planning and Decision Making Implications for Educational Information Services Kate Wild that IBE considers propitious to publish in a single volume The thesis of the first paper is that supporting decision making with research based knowledge is a complex undertaking A fruitful strategy involves identifying and addressing the multiple groups of stakeholders involved as part of the research process The purpose of the second paper is to explore the relationship between the availability of information and improvements in the effectiveness of educational systems particularly but not exclusively as it relates to the reporting of research results and to examine the implications for information and documentation services The basic objective of this publication is to promote a dialogue among the three main partners in this process political decision makers researchers and documentalists based on systematic and up to date information Such a dialogue should lead to a reduction in the rifts misunderstandings stereotypes and obstructions that have often weakened the outcomes of this work

Intimate Relationships Sharon Brehm, 2002 Intimate Relationships 3rd edition by Sharon S Brehm Rowland S Miller Daniel Perlman and Susan Campbell preserves the personal appeal of the subject matter and vigorous standards of scholarship that made the earlier editions so successful Written in a unified voice this text builds on the reader friendly tone that was established in the first two editions It presents the key findings on intimate relationships the major theoretical perspectives and some of the current controversies in the field Brehm Miller Perlman and Campbell illustrate the relevance of close relationship science to readers everyday lives encouraging thought and analysis Classic contributions to the field are covered in addition to topics on the leading edge of research

Publisher's description The Psychologist, 2005 The New Handbook of Language and Social Psychology W. Peter Robinson, Howard Giles, 2001-06-08 What makes a good argument How is language used to create social influence How social is computer mediated communication This new fully updated and revised The New Handbook of Language and Social Psychology reflects the increasingly diverse range of linguistic topics that social psychologists have investigated over the decade since the previous edition of this seminal work was published Whilst the basic organization of the text remains the same explanatory frameworks are accorded greater prominence than before and persons are seen as agents of communicative interaction rather than as victims of external forces. Processes and actions are highlighted i.e. how people do what they do and how they manage the discourse. In the final section several applied topics reflect our changing lifestyle: computer mediated communication, mass media and organizations. The New Handbook of Language and Social Psychology is an essential source book for all psychologists concerned with language and how it functions in human communication. Those interested in interpersonal and intergroup social relations will find much relevance as will practitioners and other professionals working in health and welfare, multilingual contexts and organizations. Interactive Group Counseling and Therapy William B. Kline, 2003. The premise of this book is that group counseling is not individual counseling and what works for the former likely won't work for the latter. It's a fresh new introduction to the principles, theories and procedures of group counseling and therapy. It's written to show how group work really works and ensures readers an understanding of how to create and maintain a group environment that actually succeeds in helping its members achieve significant growth and change. It emphasizes unique group processes and a systemic perspective asserting that the quality of members' interactions is the critical determinant of a group's progress. It addresses all of the essential tasks in planning, conducting and concluding groups. Other topics include teaching essential membership skills, how to teach group members interaction skills to assist them in personal growth and the process of becoming an effective leader. For professionals in the field of group counseling

Physical & Health Education Journal, 2001. Canada's magazine for physical and health educators. Environmental Challenges: Confronting the Oil Industry Javier Estrada, Kristian Tangen, Helge Ole Bergesen, 1997. Since the late 1980s when the current tide of environmental concern began to rise, every improvement made by the oil industry has been followed by new demands for further progress. New problems have been placed on top of the old ones: first smog in the inner cities and oil spills on the beaches, then acid rain and forest die-back, followed by major tank disasters and renewed attention to urban air quality and finally climatic change. The purpose of this book is to investigate whether the oil industry is able to extend and renew its social legitimacy as it faces its toughest agenda in a century: the challenges stemming from its impact on the environment and the consequent public questioning of its role in society. To find out whether and how the oil industry has responded to environmental issues in general and climatic change in particular, five indicators of change: vision, image, R & D investments and government relations have been selected. These have been assumed to be expressions of an environmental strategy which can be identified as reactive, cautious or creative. The empirical analysis begins with case studies of the environmental response of five major oil companies: Shell, Exxon, BP, Amoco and Statoil. The next step is a case study of the refinery sector which is the most environmentally sensitive part of the industry in many ways. In addition, a brief description of how three industry associations have tackled the same environmental issues is included. The main readership for this book will be policy makers, planners and researchers in the oil industry and environmental consultants. The Cumulative Book Index, 1996. A world list of books in the English language. Facing the Challenge Jacqueline Danzberger, Twentieth Century Fund. Task Force on School Governance, Danforth Foundation (Saint Louis, Mo.), 1992 Examining school governance in the US this book debates the role of politics in school boards the board superintendent relationship the desirability of providing board members with on the job training and possibilities for eliminating school boards in favour of new forms of governance

Communication Theories in Action Julia T. Wood, 1997 The theories presented show introductory students how communication affects everyday experiences and how theory can be applied to be more effective in relationships and activities The text covers both historical and established theories and focuses on a number of new theories that have emerged in recent years such as cultural studies theories critical theories and feminist theories
