Algorithm Animation Marc H. Brown, 1988 Computing Methodologies Computer Graphics Animated Algorithms Michael P. Barnett, Simon J. Barnett, 1986 This book contains the traditional topics of a first serious course in computer science for users without a computer science background No advanced knowledge is needed to understand this text with over 20 ready to run BASIC programs follow the progress of algorithms and data structures Topics are developed through successive chapters using an integrated methodology The sample programs provide easily adapted code for implementing algorithms and graphically demonstrate in easily followable steps algorithm and data structure processes Activities to master these techniques are included in each chapter Animated Algorithms Peter Gloor, Scott Dynes, Irene Lee, 1993 This hypermedia CD ROM provides an ideal format for the visual explanation of complex algorithms contained in the text Introduction to Algorithms by Thomas H Cormen Charles E Leiserson and Ronald L Rivest It contains three complementary components a hypertext version of the book itself interactive animations of the most important algorithms and movies explaining the use of the hypertext interface and the animations The hypertext including the figures is stored in HyperCard stacks It contains tools for navigation text annotation tracking of preexisting links full text search and the adding of links and paths through the document This enables instructors and students to customize the hypertext easily for classroom and personal use The animations that are implemented in HyperCard are linked with the hypertext and can be controlled interactively by the user They also include extensive on line help making them self contained Some animations include scripting facilities allowing users to program animations of specific data structures The movies talking heads and demonstrations provide a way to view noninteractive versions of the algorithm animations These are stored on the CD in QuickTime format Peter Gloor is Research Associate in the Laboratory for Computer Science and Scott Dynes is a Ph D candidate in the Eaton Peabody Laboratory both at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Irene Lee was formerly a graduate student at Harvard University Animated algorithms Asymptotic Notation Recursion Simple Data Structures Sorting Algorithms and Analysis Hashing Binary Trees Red Black Trees Minimum Spanning Trees Single Source Shortest Paths Fibonacci Heaps Huffman Encoding Dynamic Programming Matrix Multiplication Matrix Inverse Convex Hull Genetic Algorithms Neural Networks Animation of Geometric Algorithms , 1992 Abstract Geometric algorithms and data structures are often easiest to understand visually in terms of the geometric objects they manipulate Indeed most papers in computational geometry rely on diagrams to communicate the intuition behind the results Algorithm animation uses dynamic visual images to explain algorithms Thus it is natural to present geometric algorithms which are inherently dynamic via algorithm animation The accompanying videotape presents a video review of geometric animations the review was premiered at the 1992 ACM Symposium on Computational Geometry The video review includes single algorithm animations and sample graphic displays from workbench systems for implementing multiple geometric algorithms This report contains short descriptions of each video segment

Computational Support for Discrete Mathematics Nathaniel Dean, Gregory E. Shannon, With recent technological advances in workstations graphics graphical user interfaces and object oriented programming languages a significant number of researchers are developing general purpose software and integrated software systems for domains in discrete mathematics including graph theory combinatorics combinatorial optimization and sets This software aims to provide effective computational tools for research applications prototyping and teaching In March 1992 DIMACS sponsored a workshop on Computational Support for Discrete Mathematics in order to facilitate interactions between the researchers developers and educators who work in these areas Containing refereed papers based on talks presented at the workshop this volume documents current and past research in these areas and should provide impetus for new interactions

Elements of Hypermedia Design: Techniques for Navigation & Visualization in Cyberspace Peter Gloor, 2013-11-11 The hypermedia authoring process has been vividly described in a special issue of the Economist as a combination of writing a book a play a film and a radio or television show A hypermedia document combines all these elements and adds some of its own The author's first job is to structure and explain all of the information The author then must distill the information into brief descriptive nodes Each node has to contain a list of the ingredients and instructions on how the ingredients are mixed together to the greatest advantage The structure of the material provided is translated into an architectural metaphor of some kind much of the designer's work is the creation of this imaginary space Then the designers must chart the details of what to animate what to film who to interview and how to arrange the information in the space to be built Eco95a This book presents guidelines tools and techniques for prospective authors such that they can design better hypermedia documents and applications It surveys the different techniques used to organize search and structure information in a large information system It then describes the algorithms used to locate reorganize and link data to enable navigation and retrieval It looks in detail at the creation and presentation of certain types of visual information namely algorithm animations It introduces new mechanisms for editing audio and video data streams

The 1992 SRC Algorithm Animation Festival Marc H. Brown, 1993 Abstract During the last two weeks of July 1992 twenty researchers at Digital Equipment Corporation's Systems Research Center participated in the 1st Annual SRC Algorithm Animation Festival Only two of the researchers had previously animated an algorithm and not too many more had ever written an application that involved graphics In this paper we report on the Animation Festival describing why we did it and what we did and commenting on what we learned

Interactive Computer-mediated Animation Ronald M. Baecker,1969 The use of interactive computer graphics in the construction of animated visual displays is investigated In interactive computer mediated animation movies are formed from direct console commands algorithms free hand sketches and real time actions such as mimicking a movement or rhythm with a stylus or a push button The resulting movies can be immediately viewed and altered In picture driven animation the animator may sketch and refine 1 static images to be used as components of individual frames of the movie and 2 static and dynamic images that represent movement and rhythm These latter pictures drive algorithms to generate dynamic displays Since each such picture determines critical parameters of a sequence of frames a single sketch or action controls the dynamic behavior of an entire interval of the movie The dissertation also outlines the design of a multi purpose open ended
