agencies that arranged adoptions Drawing on extensive research in black newspapers and magazines interviews with African American soldiers and case notes about African American adoptive families A War Born Family demonstrates how the Cold War and the struggle for civil rights led child welfare agencies to reevaluate African American men and women as suitable adoptive parents advancing the cause of Korean transnational adoption

Contemporary Asian America (third Edition) Min Zhou, Anthony Christian Ocampo, 2016-04-19 The third edition of the foundational volume in Asian American studies Who are Asian Americans Moving beyond popular stereotypes of the model minority or forever foreigner most Americans know surprisingly little of the nation's fastest growing minority population Since the 1960s when different Asian immigrant groups came together under the Asian American umbrella they have tirelessly carved out their presence in the labor market education politics and pop culture Many times they have done so in the face of racism discrimination sexism homophobia and socioeconomic disadvantage Today contemporary Asian America has emerged as an incredibly diverse population with each segment of the community facing its unique challenges When Contemporary Asian America was first published in 2000 it exposed its readers to the formation and development of Asian American studies as an academic field of study from its inception as part of the ethnic consciousness movement of the 1960s to the systematic inquiry into more contemporary theoretical and practical issues facing Asian America at the century's end It was the first volume to integrate a broad range of interdisciplinary research and approaches from a social science perspective to assess the effects of immigration community development and socialization on Asian American communities This updated third edition discusses the impact of September 11 on Asian American identity and citizenship the continued influence of globalization on past and present waves of immigration and the intersection of race gender sexuality and class on the experiences of Asian immigrants and their children The volume also provides study questions and recommended supplementary readings and documentary films This critical text offers a broad overview of Asian American studies and the current state of Asian America

Broken Links, Enduring Ties Linda Seligmann, 2013-10-02 Family making in America is in a state of flux the ways people compose their families is changing including those who choose to adopt Broken Links Enduring Ties is a groundbreaking comparative investigation of transnational and interracial adoptions in America Linda Seligmann uncovers the impact of these adoptions over the last twenty years on the ideologies and cultural assumptions that Americans hold about families and how they are constituted Seligmann explores whether or not new kinds of families and communities are emerging as a result of these adoptions providing a compelling narrative on how adoptive families thrive and struggle to create lasting ties Seligmann observed and interviewed numerous adoptive parents and children non adoptive families religious figures teachers and administrators and adoption brokers The book uncovers that adoption once wholly stigmatized is now often embraced either as a romanticized mission of rescue or conversely as simply one among multiple ways to make a family

Transnational adoption was once a rarity in the United States but Americans have been choosing to adopt children from abroad with increasing frequency since the mid twentieth century Korean adoptees make up the largest share of international adoptions 25 percent of all children adopted from outside the United States but they remain understudied among Asian American groups What kind of identities do adoptees develop as members of American families and in a cultural climate that often views them as foreigners Choosing Ethnicity Negotiating Race is the only study of this unique population to collect in depth interviews with a multigenerational random sample of adult Korean adoptees The book examines how Korean adoptees form their social identities and compares them to native born Asian Americans who are not adopted How do American stereotypes influence the ways Korean adoptees identify themselves Does the need to explore a Korean cultural identity or the absence of this need shift according to life stage or circumstance In Choosing Ethnicity Negotiating Race sixty one adult Korean adoptees representing different genders social classes and communities reflect on early childhood young adulthood their current lives and how they experience others perceptions of them The authors find that most adoptees do not identify themselves strongly in ethnic terms although they will at times identify as Korean or Asian American in order to deflect questions from outsiders about their cultural backgrounds Indeed Korean adoptees are far less likely than their non adopted Asian American peers to explore their ethnic backgrounds by joining ethnic organizations or social networks Adoptees who do not explore their ethnic identity early in life are less likely ever to do so citing such causes as general aversion lack of opportunity or the personal insignificance of race ethnicity and adoption in their lives Nonetheless the choice of many adoptees not to identify as Korean or Asian American does not diminish the salience of racial stereotypes in their lives Korean adoptees must continually navigate society s assumptions about Asian Americans regardless of whether they chose to identify ethnically Choosing Ethnicity Negotiating Race is a crucial examination of this little studied American population and will make informative reading for adoptive families adoption agencies and policymakers The authors demonstrate that while race is a social construct its influence on daily life is real This book provides an insightful analysis of how potent this influence can be for transnational adoptees and all Americans Adopted from Asia Frances M. Koh,1993
