Relations AnnKatrin Jonsson, 2006 In Relations AnnKatrin

Jonsson develops a new understanding of ethics and subjectivity within high modernism. The author analyzes Joyce's Ulysses, Woolf's The Waves and Barnes's Nightwood as narratives that depict a subject turning towards the other and the world, a movement that seriously questions the sovereignty of the subject as cogito instead opening up for otherness, excess and indeterminacy. The author points to convergences between a phenomenological manner of thinking found in modernist literature and the notion of an ethics and an ethical subjectivity: a subject who exists in an inescapable relation with the world. As the novels acknowledge otherness, there is a rebound effect on the narrative's structure and style: otherness transforms the narrative itself. In this way, Ulysses, The Waves and Nightwood indicate a desire to escape from a notion of the subject that contains and controls the world and the other. By indicating ways in which new conceptions of ethics are made possible within modernism, the author also shows that there are within modernism both literary and philosophical texts whose understanding and representation of subjectivity already express and establish crucial aspects of the discourse on ethics and ethical subjectivity that characterize recent continental philosophy and cultural theory.

Patterns for America Susan Hegeman, 1999-05-21. In recent decades, historians and social theorists have given much thought to the concept of culture, its origins in Western thought and its usefulness for social analysis. In this book, Susan Hegeman focuses on the term's history in the United States in the first half of the twentieth century. She shows how during this period, the term "culture" changed from being a technical term associated primarily with anthropology into a term of popular usage. She shows the connections between this movement of culture into the mainstream and the emergence of a distinctive American culture with its own patterns, values, and beliefs. Hegeman points to the significant similarities between the conceptions of culture produced by anthropologists Franz Boas, Edward Sapir, Ruth Benedict, and Margaret Mead and a diversity of other intellectuals including Randolph Bourne, Van Wyck Brooks, Waldo Frank, and Dwight Macdonald. Hegeman reveals how relativist anthropological ideas of human culture, which stressed the distance between modern centers and primitive peripheries, came into alliance with the evaluating judgments of artists and critics. This anthropological conception provided a spatial awareness that helped develop the notion of a specifically American culture. She also shows the connections between this new view of culture and the artistic work of the period, by among others, Sherwood Anderson, Jean Toomer, Thomas Hart Benton, Nathanael West, and James Agee, and depicts in a new way the richness and complexity of the modernist milieu in the United States.

American Modernism (Re)Considered Robert C. Hauhart, Jeff Birkenstein, 2025-08-07. What exactly is modernism, and who are modernist writers? What distinguishes American modernism from its European counterpart? American Modernism (Re)Considered questions the principal distinction between modernism and other genres/movements/styles in literature through new critical readings of canonical modernist texts alongside texts which pose a problem for modernism due to their ambiguous, if not marginal, relation to some of its predominant tenets. It asks: Is modernism characterized principally by a transition from older forms like naturalism and realism to a style that is new, innovative, and experimental? Is it found in shared understandings and alignments regarding the nature and purpose of art Is it identifiable by modernists treatment of various central themes including as a reaction to modernity as a response to the Boer and World wars as an interrogation of Britain s empire and its dissolution and how these events fragmented modern life Or is it all of the above Contributors discuss a wide range of texts by authors such as Nella Larsen Willa Cather Charlotte Perkins Gilman Anne Carson Wallace Stevens Am rico Paredes Richard Wright Ernest Hemingway and T S Eliot to challenge the aesthetic social and temporal boundaries of modernism in America Through original close readings of these texts American Modernism Re Considered subjects modernism to new interrogations and offers new answers to questions that remain contemporary even as they harken back to its height of popularity and interest in the mid 1920s American Modernism. False Starts David M. Ball,2014-11-30 From Herman Melville s claim that failure is the true test of greatness to Henry Adams s self identification with the mortifying failure in his long education and William Faulkner s eagerness to be judged by his splendid failure to do the impossible the rhetoric of failure has served as a master trope of modernist American literary expression David Ball s magisterial study addresses the fundamental questions of language meaning and authority that run counter to well rehearsed claims of American innocence and positivity beginning with the American Renaissance and extending into modernist and contemporary literature The rhetoric of failure was used at various times to engage artistic ambition the arrival of advanced capitalism and a rapidly changing culture not to mention sheer exhaustion False Starts locates a lively narrative running through American literature that consequently queries assumptions about the development of modernism in the United States Late Modernism Robert Genter,2011-06-06 In the thirty years after World War II American intellectual and artistic life changed as dramatically as did the rest of society Gone were the rebellious lions of modernism Joyce Picasso Stravinsky and nearing exhaustion were those who took up their mantle as abstract expressionism gave way to pop art and the barren formalism associated with the so called high modernists wilted before the hothouse cultural brew of the 1960s According to conventional thinking it was around this time that postmodernism with its characteristic skepticism and relativism was born In Late Modernism historian Robert Genter remaps the landscape of American modernism in the early decades of the Cold War tracing the combative debate among artists writers and intellectuals over the nature of the aesthetic form in an age of mass politics and mass culture Dispensing with traditional narratives that present this moment as marking the exhaustion of modernism Genter argues instead that the 1950s were the apogee of the movement as American practitioners abstract expressionists Beat poets formalist critics color field painters and critical theorists among others debated the relationship between form and content tradition and innovation aesthetics and politics In this compelling work of intellectual and cultural history Genter presents an invigorated tradition of late modernism centered on the work of Kenneth Burke Ralph Ellison C Wright Mills David Riesman Jasper Johns Norman Brown and James Baldwin a tradition that overcame the conservative and reactionary politics of competing modernist practitioners and paved the way for the postmodern turn of the 1960s
