Ana Aragon, Jill Kings, 2010 These practice guidelines draw upon the widest relevant knowledge and evidence available to describe and inform contemporary best practice occupational therapy for people with Parkinson's disease They include practical examples of interventions to allow occupational therapists to apply new treatments to their practice Best Practices in Occupational Therapy Education Patricia A. Hickerson Crist, Marjorie E. Scaffa, 2004 Best Practices in Occupational Therapy Education is a must have resource that showcases effective methods and practices in occupational therapy education It examines the effects of level II fieldwork on clinical reasoning and the professional development of fieldwork students in terms of occupational adaptation clinical reasoning and client centeredness It also illustrates ways to promote professional reflection through problem based learning evaluations and activities how OT students personality types affect the teaching and learning strategies that work best with them and how to integrate evidence based practice into students academic and fieldwork experiences Evidence-Based Practice for Occupational Therapists M. Clare Taylor, 2007-09-11 EVIDENCE BASED PRACTICE FOR OCCUPATIONAL THERAPISTS Evidence based practice EBP is one of the driving forces in current healthcare practice Occupational therapists recognise the need for research and for an evidence based approach to interventions but can need guidance on how to do this This book aims to make evidence based practice accessible and relevant to occupational therapists using examples from therapy practice It will provide them with the skills to search for and access the required evidence to underpin or question practice Publication of the first edition of this book in 2000 signaled the receptiveness of the occupational therapy community toward evidence based practice This second edition as well as providing practical information on EBP also addresses how it has evolved within the culture of occupational therapy The author considers the definition of evidence based occupational therapy the impact of research governance and social care influences on suitable evidence Implementation issues are covered in greater depth including change management and practice guidelines Three new chapters have been added on evidence from other sources carrying out a review of the evidence and developing and using guidelines for practice Occupational Therapy, 1979

Recommendations for Best Practice of Occupational Therapy in Stroke Rehabilitation for Motor Recovery and Functional Outcomes Shannon Marie Martin, 2011 Abstract Stroke is one of the leading causes of serious long term disability in the United States According to statistics from 1996 the American Occupational Therapy Association reported that clients following stroke are the single largest population seen by occupational therapists in their practice Furthermore motor impairment of the upper extremity is one of the most common of the stroke sequelae There is a call within the profession of occupational therapy to improve the use of evidence based practice amongst clinicians in all areas of practice including stroke rehabilitation In order to assure that occupational therapy services being delivered are appropriate effective and efficient outcomes research related to best practice interventions need to be established However multiple barriers have been identified which impede effective research utilization This doctoral project sought to identify analyze and synthesize the current evidence related to occupational therapy interventions which address motor impairments of the upper extremity in clients following stroke The comprehensive literature review was used to establish best practice guidelines for occupational therapists working in stroke rehabilitation The suggested program established as part of this doctoral project consisted of a comprehensive training module for occupational therapists based on adult learning theory implementation of a standardized motor assessment to be used to guide evaluation and treatment of clients and to later assist with program evaluation and a decision tree to assist therapists with identifying the most appropriate intervention to be implemented with each client These efforts will address some of the barriers identified in establishing evidence based practice with the primary objective being to improve client outcomes and quality of life following stroke
