Beyond Caring:

Beyond Caring Paul Graham, 2021 Originally self published in 1985 Paul Graham's renowned series Beyond Caring was made in the waiting rooms and corridors of the Social Security and Unemployment offices around the UK documenting the long waits queues and poor conditions of an overburdened system to produce a powerful series of photographs conveying the hardship people experienced Denied official permission to make the work Graham's photographs were taken discreetly usually without looking through the camera resulting in a spatial disorientation that emphasised the unmoored distress of vulnerable citizens The work shocked many on its release leading Magnum photographers were outraged by its use of colour in a classic documentary topic while others celebrated how it straddled the world of activism and art it was exhibited at both Trade Union conferences and the Museum of Modern Art New York Graham forged a fresh form of engaged photography mixing elements of social documentary new colour and reportage to create a striking body of work that endures to this day Many decades have passed since their making in 1984 but these images have grown not only in photographic importance but also as a unique historic record of the mid 1980s unemployment crisis in the UK This edition of Beyond Caring is part of Graham's iconic 1980s trilogy of UK books being republished by MACK which also includes A1 The Great North Road 2020 and Troubled Land Fall 2021

Beyond Caring Daniel F. Chambliss, 1996-06-15 Provides eyewitness accounts and personal stories demonstrating how nurses turn the awesome into the routine Chambliss shows how patients many weak and helpless too often become objects of the bureaucratic machinery of the health care system and how ethics decisions once the dilemmas of troubled individuals become the setting for political turf battles between occupational interest groups The result is a combination of realism with a theoretical argument about moral life in large organizations From publisher description

Beyond Caring Paul Graham, David Chandler, 2011 Paul Graham's Beyond Caring published in 1986 is now considered one of the key works from Britain's wave of New Color photography that was gaining momentum in the 1980s While commissioned to present his view of Britain in 1984 Graham turned his attention towards the waiting rooms queues and poor conditions of overburdened Social Security and Unemployment offices across the United Kingdom Photographing surreptitiously his camera is both witness and protagonist within a bureaucratic system that speaks to the humiliation and indignity aimed towards the most vulnerable end of society Books on Books 9 presents every page spread of Graham's controversial book along with a contemporary essay by writer and curator David Chandler Publisher Beyond Caring, 1986 Originally self published in 1985 Paul Graham's renowned series Beyond Caring was made in the waiting rooms and corridors of the Social Security and Unemployment offices around the UK documenting the long waits queues and poor conditions of an overburdened system to produce a powerful series of photographs conveying the hardship people experienced Denied official permission to make the work Graham's photographs were taken discreetly usually without looking through the camera resulting in a spatial disorientation that emphasised the unmoored distress of vulnerable citizens

The work shocked many on its release leading Magnum photographers were outraged by its use of colour in a classic documentary topic while others celebrated how it straddled the world of activism and art it was exhibited at both Trade Union conferences and the Museum of Modern Art New York Graham forged a fresh form of engaged photography mixing elements of social documentary new colour and reportage to create a striking body of work that endures to this day Many decades have passed since their making in 1984 but these images have grown not only in photographic importance but also as a unique historic record of the mid 1980s unemployment crisis in the UK Beyond Caring Labour to Provisioning Work Sheila Neysmith, Marge Reitsma-Street, Stephanie Baker-Collins, Elaine Porter, 2012-03-09 Although women have long been members of the labour force the proportion of domestic caring and community work they provide compared to men or the state has yet to decrease substantially Beyond Caring Labour to Provisioning Work offers a powerful new framework for understanding women's work in a holistic sense acknowledging both their responsibilities in supporting others as well as their employment duties Beyond Caring Labour to Provisioning Work is based on a four year multi site study of women who are members of contemporary community organizations The authors reveal the complex ways in which these women define and value their own work investigating what supports and constrains their individual and collective efforts Calling on the state to assist more with citizens provisioning responsibilities Beyond Caring Labour to Provisioning Work provides an excellent basis for new discussions on equitable and sustainable public policies Beyond Caring Alexander Zeldin, 2015-05-29 I'm a hard worker I don't push him to the You know I don't go out for breaks when I'm not supposed to I don't stay in the loo when I'm not supposed to If I was that kind of person I could have him done for discrimination I just get on with things you know Four people arrive to work the night shift in a meat factory They meet for the first time They are employed as cleaners by a temp agency They are all on zero hours contracts Every shift they clean Every four hours they take a break They drink tea or coffee together They read magazines They chat As it gets light they go home or to another job The cycle goes on And on Strangers Until something stirs until isolated people get too close to one another too fast Alexander Zeldin's brutally honest and darkly humorous play written through devising with the ensemble of the premiere production exposes stories of an invisible class It received its world premiere at The Yard on 1 July 2014 and transferred to the National Theatre's Temporary Theatre on 28 April 2015 Beyond Caring: photographs by Graham Paul P. Graham, 1984 Beyond caring : the de-moralization of gender, 1997 Beyond Caring Paul Graham, 2011 Beyond Caring Peter Moss, 2003 Beyond Caring Public Knowledge Books, 2025-11 Thinking Through Theatre and Performance Maaike Bleeker, Adrian Kear, Joe Kelleher, Heike Roms, 2019-02-07 Thinking Through Theatre and Performance presents a bold and innovative approach to the study of theatre and performance Instead of topics genres histories or theories the book starts with the questions that theatre and performance are uniquely capable of asking How does theatre function as a place for seeing and hearing How do not only bodies and voices but also objects and media perform How do memories emotions and ideas continue to do their work when the performance is over And how can theatre and performance intervene in social political and environmental structures and frameworks Written by leading international scholars each chapter of this volume is built around a key performance example and detailed discussions introduce the methodologies and theories that help us understand how these performances are practices of enquiry into the world Thinking through Theatre and Performance is essential for those involved in making enjoying critiquing and studying theatre and will appeal to anyone who is interested in the questions that theatre and performance ask of themselves and of us Beyond Caring Kenneth Johnson,2024-03-01

When young Billy and his mother encounter Mr Simmons in the waiting room of a veterinary clinic they uncover a disheartening misunderstanding Mr Simmons an elderly man unable to read believed he was awaiting an appointment with a doctor for humans not a pet doctor The medical symbol on the building had misled him Moved by Mr Simmons plight Billy is determined to help in a way that goes beyond merely directing him to the correct physician With his mother a compassionate school teacher by his side Billy sets into motion an extraordinary chain of events The pair not only help Mr Simmons learn to read but buoyed by their success go on to establish an adult education center Beyond Caring is a heartwarming tale of empathy community and the transformative power of education In its conclusion the story casts Billy and his mother as modern day Good Samaritans figures who extend help beyond the immediate need giving others the tools they need to thrive
