Concepts of Home and Belonging in Postcolonial Literature Compared in the Novels "Small Island" by Andrea Levy and "White Teeth" by Zadie Smith Christina

Heckmann, 2009 Seminar paper from the year 2006 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 2.00 University of Göttingen Seminar für Englische Philologie course Multiethnic Britain language English abstract 1

Introduction 1.1 Brief introduction to home and belonging as a general idea Home has a significant function in our lives Thinking of home we associate notions like shelter and comfort and when we come home we want to feel safe and welcome John McLeod argues in this sense that to be at home is to occupy a location where we are welcome where we can be with people very much like ourselves 1 We are looking for who we are where we come from and try to find our place in life When one is born in a country but moves to another where is one's home country then This question is hard to answer because migration is always a process which implies a struggle of identities When the 2nd generation is born in the host country where do they belong if the host country does not accept them as full members The term home is highly complicated in a complex and multicultural world like ours 1.2 Procedure and approach of my analyses I have centered my term paper on an attempt to identify and characterize the concepts of home and belonging in postcolonial literature Comparing how the idea of home and belonging is presented in the novels White Teeth by Zadie Smith and Small Island by Andrea Levy I have tried a text extrinsic approach Furthermore I have analysed the authors' intentions with regard to the time of publication and the time of the narrative However the main aspect of my analyses is which concepts of home and belonging exist and which of them can be found in the novels of my comparison I have chosen White Teeth because it is a novel that deals with the colonial past and the postcolonial present and I have selected Small Island because it is a novel that deals with migration in the past Small Island is set at the beginning Interrogating Post-colonialism Harish Trivedi, Meenakshi Mukherjee, 1996 Selected essays from an international conference organized by the Indian Association for Commonwealth Literature and Language Studies in collaboration with and at the Indian Institute of Advanced Study Simla from 3 to 5 Oct 1994 Towards a Portuguese Postcolonialism Anthony Soares, 2006 Postcolonial Discourse and Changing Cultural Contexts Gita Rajan, Radhika Mohanram, 1995-10-23 Postcolonial discourse is fast becoming an area of rich academic debate At the heart of coloniality and postcoloniality is the contested authority of empire and its impact upon previously colonized peoples and their indigenous cultures This book examines various theories of colonization and decolonization and how the ideas of a British empire create networks of discourses in contemporary postcolonial cultures The various essays in this book address the question of empire by exploring such constructs as nation and modernity third world feminisms identity politics the status and roles of exiles exilic subjectivities border intellectuals and the presence of a postcolonial body in today's classrooms Topics discussed include African American literature the nature of postcolonial texts in first world contexts jazz films and TV as examples of postcolonial discourse and the debates surrounding biculturalism and multiculturalism in New Zealand and Australia Development cooperation in the face of postcolonial studies Katharina Jung, 2018-08-01 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2018 in the subject Communications Intercultural Communication grade 1 2 University of Bonn language English abstract Eye level help to self help partnership these are words constantly heard in the context of development cooperation However the notion development can be criticized for being a continuation of colonial thought patterns a bare reproduction of western interests Still most western aid organizations claim as it were self evident that they practice a development partnership on equal footing with the global South At first glance it might seem obvious that a relationship where there is a donor and a receiver can never be at eye level because the donor has the power to decide when how much how long and for what s he wants to contribute This directly implies a dependency where the donor can set conditions which the receiver has to comply with It is surprising that even though the vast majority of western agents in this field of research and practice are very much aware of the diverse criticisms of their activities they often do not realize that the relationship between the global North and South is constituted as a constellation of antagonisms which were born in colonial times and frame the idea of development cooperation until today Colonial narratives of uncivilized versus civilized traditional versus modern shape both our understanding and the order of the world Thus development cooperation is discerned through the glasses of postcolonial scholarship as a continuity to colonialism Mostly overlooking this impressive compromise of postcolonialism western development scholarship and practice defend their mission by arguing that injustices are happening in the global South such as malnutrition or death due to diseases which might not be too difficult to solve with the adequate transfer of knowledge and finances from the global North An enlightening interpretation of the development project and its postcolonial criticisms has been provided by Christine Sylvester s essay Disparate tales of the Third World Rethinking Postcolonialism Amar Acheraiou,2008-04 Acheraiou challenges postcolonial discourse analysis and proposes a new model of interpretation that resituates the historical ideological and conceptual denseness of the Colonial idea He questions key issues including hybridity Otherness and territoriality and expands the postcolonial field by introducing ground breaking theoretical concepts
